Health officials urge masks indoors

NORWALK - If you're vaccinated, you are protected from the highly transmissible Delta variant and in most cases you can keep your mask off. That's the message both the California Department of Public Health and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention are putting out

Los Angeles County updated its masking guidelines earlier this week, calling on all people, regardless of vaccination status, to put their masks on indoors in public places due to the Delta variant spreading across the L.A. area. The World Health Organization also released a statement over the weekend reiterating its longstanding recommendation that everyone wear masks to lessen the spread of

These announcements created some confusion and led many to wonder if more changes were coming to mask rules.

California's health department said in a statement Wednesday that guidance for face masks will remain in alignment with the CDC recommendations, allowing fully vaccinated individuals to resume activities without wearing a mask in most settings.

"Unvaccinated individuals must continue to wear masks in indoor public settings and businesses to help protect against the risk of infection or infecting others," said Dr. Tomás Aragón, the state's public health officer. "Under this guidance businesses have the option of requiring all customers to wear a mask, even if they're already vaccinated, and (D-CA) reiterated her call for local health jurisdictions may impose stricter guidance or provide additional recommendations as a result of local conditions.'

Aragón reiterated that getting vaccinated is the best line of defense against the Delta variant.

"The California Department of Public Health is closely monitoring the spread of COVID-19 and its variants across our state," Aragón said. "Currently, the Delta variant accounts for approximately 15 percent of cases sampled in California, and we anticipate this percentage will increase. The most important thing we can do to stop the spread of COVID-19 is ensure everyone who is eligible gets vaccinated."

According to the L.A. County Department of Public Health, fully vaccinated people appear to be well protected from infections with Delta variants, however, people with only one vaccine dose of Pfizer or Moderna are not as well-protected.

The smaller number of COVID-19 infections identified in people who are fully vaccinated have been mild illnesses.

"While COVID-19 vaccine provides very effective protection preventing hospitalizations and deaths against the Delta variant, the strain is proving to be more transmissible and is expected become more prevalent," said health director Barbara Ferrer. "Mask wearing remains an effective tool for reducing transmission, especially indoors where the virus may be easily spread through inhalation of aerosols emitted by an infected

"strongly recommends" people wear masks indoors in settings such as grocery or retail stores; theaters and family entertainment centers, and workplaces when you don't know everyone's vaccination

He stated that there is no specific area where the fireworks are coming from, but law enforcement usually finds them in the days leading up to the holiday.

Biola softball finishes season as NCAA DII national runner-up

LA MIRADA – Biola who?

That question was quickly answered in the NCAA DII softball postseason on the Biola University softball program in 2021.

game short of the national title in the second game with the win. last month in Denver, Colorado.

After the 2020 season was cut short due to the pandemic, Biola was making its first-ever appearance in its first season eligible for NCAA Division II postseason.

And did they ever make an appearance.

Biola, which finished with a 26-16 overall record, won the NCAA DII West Region title, advanced to the national tournament, defeated the No. 1 team in the country and made it to the championship final.

With those accomplishments alone, the Eagles made a name for themselves and finished the season as the No. 2-ranked team in the country.

"I'm obviously proud of my team for making history today (June 1)," said third-year Biola Softball Coach Nikki Udria, in the post game press conference. "Making it this far in the season is an accomplishment in and of itself. "I think it's a blessing for these seniors (Kayla Neff, Haley Martinez and Ruth Munoz) sitting to the left and to the right of me and to finish their careers in the national championship game. I don't think a lot of people can say that they've done that.

"I'm proud of them and team and their performance."

The Eagles, who had a 7-3 postseason record, won the West Region title with a 3-1 record and defeated No. 1 seed championship game.

Biola advanced to the Regional title game with wins over No. 3 seed Northwest Nazarene (4-3) and No. 5 seed Hawaii-Hilo (9-0,

Biola lost to Concordia in The Eagles made a historic run the first of two games in the this past season that came just one championship, 3-2, but came back

> They advanced to the National tournament against seven other Regional Champions, which included top-ranked Augustana (South Dakota).

Biola opened up its first-ever NCAA National Finals with a 4-0 shutout over No. 4 seed North Georgia. That win was historical for the Biola program.

"I think nerves are natural," said Udria, after the win. "I tell the girls, you are going to be nervous. We were nervous, obviously. But it's just how we channel it. Being able to make plays that we practice all the time.'

I've been NCAA Division II postseason for the 27th time in school history. They have two NCAA Division II national titles (1991 & 2019) and this is their ninth national tournament appearance under current head coach Gretta Melsted.

Biola defeated Augustana, 3-0, behind the four-hitter by junior pitcher Paige Austin. Austin, who led the team in wins with 16 in the season, added to her finals shutout inning total with 14 after the first two games.

Biola came up empty in the seventh and finished as the 2021 National Runner ups.

Neff, who started all 42 games for the Eagles this season, finished with the most hits (41), which included seven home runs, four doubles, a triple and a teamleading 31 RBIs.

Neff said it best on the The second game of the accomplishments of the 2021 team - "It's awesome to be able to come telling my teammates I'm just so proud of where we've come. This is it - the nerves are there, but this is as far as we have come and I'm proud no matter what happens."

> Finishing tied with the second most hits on the team with 36 was senior outfielder Jennifer Morinishi. She scored 17 runs and had five doubles.

The Founding Fathers' trouble with women

By Jamie Stiehm

The Founding Fathers, a great group of guys, gathered in Philadelphia in July of 1776 and again in 1787. What a wonder, 55 bright lights met in one room to start a revolution that isn't over yet.

We know the Declaration of Independence signers and Constitution framers were also flawed human beings. Many were rich slave owners, Virginians most of all. They preferred to say "planters."

But who was the "wokest" of them all? I mean, from a woman's point

Not Alexander Hamilton, ladies and gentlemen, despite fabulous Broadway fame. Thomas Jefferson or John Adams? They dearly loved their

For the Fourth of July, let's see about that.

Washing ashore, Hamilton was inventive and clever, charming but a bit ruthless in career-climbing. He was George Washington's adored young aide in the Revolutionary War and later his Treasury secretary.

Hamilton was no champion for women. He publicly confessed to bribing another man to keep quiet about his philandering. His wife Betsy was loyal and sweet — a tad drab — from a New York political family.

Meanwhile, Thomas Jefferson is an enigma, but he clearly wrote the words, "All men are created equal." And he really meant to leave us out of that beautiful sentence.

Jefferson was tall, engaging and played the violin, among his many talents. He thought he was a dreamy catch with women, and indeed he was. After he and his wife Martha had two daughters, she died young. He soon made Sally Hemings his slave mistress — Martha's own half sister and medicine, both were born into the Quaker belief in equality. with the same white father. He had a second family with Hemings.

Jefferson never wrote a word about women rising in the public sphere, just as he never recognized his family of color. He was blind to inclusion for women and Blacks for all his long life. He died on the Fourth of July

John Adams? No better. He had a peppery Yankee wife in Abigail. They wrote letters often, over long distance from Massachusetts to his diplomatic and political posts.

Oh, we know Abigail's famed line, "Remember the ladies," in her plea to write women into the Declaration. Adams was away in Philadelphia that July, editing Jefferson's work on parchment.

In an irony, John gets credit for that line, though he roundly scoffed at his wife's proposal. Please don't tell me that Adams cared about women in general — fond as he was of Abigail.

Adams also died on the Fourth, the very day that Jefferson died, on the nation's 50th birthday. They were once allies, then enemies and then friends again in old age. They were white men of grand privilege and power who liked to keep it that way in the North and South.

Washington danced perfectly, but that's it. He married the richest

First, I'd put in a good word for two Philadelphians among the founders: William Penn and Dr. Benjamin Rush. Visionary in city planning

But you'll never guess who the best man was for us: Aaron Burr, the dashing man who slew Hamilton in the 1804 duel.

Burr and Hamilton were stars at an American Revolutionary patriots party on July 4, where Hamilton sang a solo that wrenched the company.

The secret duel was already set for July 11. Hamilton knew it was his Burr went beyond the personal. He read Mary Wollstonecraft's fiery political tract, a vindication of the rights of women.

"A work of genius," Burr told fellow senators in the 1790s. Nobody

I love him for that. Burr held nothing back on the revolutionary rights

Why hasn't legal weed killed the illegal market?

By Steve Chapman

Legal marijuana is becoming the norm in America. Nineteen states have legalized recreational cannabis, and 36 allow medical use. In all five states where liberalization was on the ballot in November, voters supported it — even in such conservative states as South Dakota and Mississippi. One in three Americans now lives in a place where adults can legally buy weed just because they feel like it.

The shift has come about for a couple of main reasons. The first is that more than half of Americans have used cannabis, and people know from experience it's not a demon drug. The second is that the national war on drugs, launched half a century ago by President Richard Nixon, has proven utterly futile in preventing such use.

There are other good reasons behind the change in laws and attitudes. By fostering a huge black market, pot prohibition rewarded street dealers, criminal gangs and foreign drug cartels. It also exposed users to a product that may be contaminated with harmful ingredients. Legalization promised to dry up the illicit trade, ensure safer products and force weed merchants to find honest work.

But it has fallen short of that promise. In Illinois, where the first legal recreational dispensaries opened on Jan. 1, 2020, black market sales reportedly remain bigger than legal ones. In Massachusetts, the illegal market is estimated to be twice as large as the state-sanctioned sector. Californians have supported a thriving underground trade

All this may be taken to prove that legalization was not the solution it was advertised to be. But what it really proves is that undoing the effects of an ill-advised and long-entrenched policy is not an overnight project. The unwanted effects of the war on marijuana, like the effects of most wars, take years to subside.

If you've been buying weed from a reliable supplier for years, you may feel some loyalty to someone who's risked jail for you — and you may be perfectly satisfied with the product you've been getting. Many veteran consumers feel no urgent need to put their friendly neighborhood dealer

Pot users often have another incentive to avoid state-licensed outlets: cost. One of the attractions of legalization for state governments was the chance to tax cannabis sales to boost revenue. Since permitting recreational marijuana in 2014, Colorado has reaped $1.6 billion in taxes on cannabis. Illinois took in $175 million last year.

But those taxes have a downside: higher prices to get high. Illinois has among the stiffest levies of any state, ranging from 10% to 25%, on top of a 7% wholesale tax. Washington state has a 37% retail sales tax. These charges create a generous space in the market for sellers who laugh

Regulation is another hurdle for legal suppliers. One big problem is the scarcity of dispensaries. The entire state of Illinois, which has a population of nearly 13 million, has only 110 legal outlets for recreational cannabis — compared to more than 1,300 liquor stores. California's United Cannabis Business Association reported that the state has three times as many black-market suppliers as legal ones.

It's not just state governments that restrict the number of places where weed users can make purchases. So do local governments. Many cities and villages in Illinois have banned recreational cannabis dispensaries. Some 80% of the municipalities in California have refused to allow pot shops. Lynda Hopkins, a Sonoma County supervisor, told The New York Times, "In California we've done what we always do — regulate, regulate, regulate." But pretty much every community has illicit dealers.

Oregon, by contrast, tried to make licensing cheap and easy. As a result, it has more legal dispensaries than California, which has eight times as many people. "If you're an Oregonian living in a town or county with legal pot and you want to buy marijuana, there is no reason to shop illegally," wrote Natalie Fertig in Politico.

The federal government doesn't help by continuing to outlaw marijuana, which creates headaches for legal outlets by limiting their access to the banking system. The federal ban also prevents farmers from growing cannabis to ship to other states, which would strengthen the egal trade. And most states still allow only medical marijuana.

For now, our national venture into legal recreational cannabis is young and only partial — and so far, it's only a partial success. That beats complete prohibition, which was a complete failure.

As we celebrate the 245th anniversary of our nation's independence, we can look back and ponder our history. Armed conflict between bands of American colonists and British soldiers first broke out in 1775, more than a year before we declared our independence.

So, interestingly enough, your Army is a year older than the nation it defends. That's why it's impossible not to think about our nation's independence without also thinking about the United States Army which

And as we mark our country's 245 birthday, let us reflect upon the strength of those early patriots. The Army has defended America in every conflict since the Revolutionary War, promoting freedom for all, a concept originally enshrined in the Declaration.

In early June of 1776, the Continental Congress met in Philadelphia to discuss the prospect of formally separating from Great Britain. Even after years of heavy taxes and oppression, not everyone was in favor of independence. After about a month of debate, and after a committee drafted a statement justifying independence from Great Britain, on July 2, 1776, the Continental Congress voted to become independent of Great Britain.

On July 4, they adopted the Declaration of Independence. We have

And, after all, they were committing treason in the eyes of

When Benjamin Franklin signed the Declaration, he spoke for many of those in the room when he said, "We must all hang together, or most assuredly, we will all hang separately."

Our Founding Fathers did not take treason lightly, but they firmly believed in the arguments laid out in the Declaration and, 11 years later, the concepts in the Constitution: "We the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, ensure domestic tranquility. To provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

And over the years, we have added a Bill of Rights and a total of 27 Amendments to the Constitution to further enshrine and expand what it means to be an American. The right of a free press, the right to vote, to peacefully assemble, the separation of church and state, the right to a speedy trial by a jury of one's peers and protections for citizens are all things that new citizens to our country cite when asked why they wanted to become Americans. With the privileges accorded to us by the Constitution, we have both civic duties and civic responsibilities to ensure our freedom is protected.

As a citizen of this great country, we have the civic duty, for example, to participate in the democratic process by voting and serving on juries when we are called. Our civic responsibilities are a little different. As citizens, we have a responsibility to stay informed of current events and encourage social participation in our democracy. We have a responsibility to make our communities better places to live and work, and we have a responsibility to volunteer and give back to our communities.

This is part of what it means to be an American, and it's why we celebrate Independence Day. The Fourth of July, our Independence Day, is about the freedom that we enjoy as Americans.

But that freedom did not come easy. This year, as we commemorate our independence, let's remember how hard our ancestors fought so we

They fought in the Revolution to ensure we could be free from England. They fought in the War of 1812, and in both World Wars, and now, we fight on a modern battlefield that includes cyber and space. Freedom, as the saying goes, isn't free. It's very costly. It costs money, it costs time and it costs lives.

The United States - our great nation - did not become what we are in one day, one month or one year. It took two plus centuries of effort and hard work to get to where we are today. The dream of our Founding Fathers was to make America the prime example of real freedom in this world. The struggle to attain this goal, and to be worthy of their vision and sacrifice, has sometimes been difficult, but it's a struggle worth

We are a country constantly working to become a more perfect union, with our citizens embodying the light and the hope of our founding documents. If we continue to do better...and we must do better...then we truly do get closer to fulfilling our principles of liberty, equality and

Our future is in our own hands. It is in the choices we make, each and every day. And it rests within each of us, trying to be better persons for ourselves and those around us...for our communities and society...for our nation and the world.

I'm reminded of the words of President Abraham Lincoln, who also lived in a turbulent time, and knew the value of his country: "I like to see a man proud of the place in which he lives. I like to see a man live so that his place will be proud of him.'

We are proud of our men and women who serve this nation, and we are proud to be part of a nation that prizes freedom above all else. Thank you, God bless you, and Happy Birthday, America.

Church and state

Our country was founded on separation of church and state. It was founded on freedom of religion. Our ancestors fled England because of persecution they suffered due to following their religious beliefs.

Because of this, I was disturbed to read the dogmatic article printed last week under the title "Joe Biden and the Blessed Sacrament" (June 24) by Judge Andrew Napolitano.

Judge Napolitano attacks President Biden for following the law and for supporting what most of us believe is best for women and our country. Three-quarters of Americans say they want to keep in place Roe vs. Wade, the landmark Supreme Court ruling that made abortions legal with some

Roe vs. Wade has been established law for nearly fifty years, giving women the right to terminate a pregnancy. Women are the ones who must carry a fetus to term and then face a lifetime of often career-ending responsibilities and expenses; many times, the father does not even help or take responsibility for raising his child.

Women's choice whether to have children must be protected under the law. It is not only the right thing to do, it is also sensible since outlawing abortions does not prevent them, it merely drives women to seek unsafe abortions with often tragic consequences

Our country was founded on separation of church and state and the First Amendment of our Constitution states that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." In other words, there is no official state religion. But just as the state cannot direct citizens to follow a particular religious belief, followers of any church must not be allowed to dictate and impose their own beliefs on the rest of us, not should they attempt to intimidate public figures due to their beliefs.

It is important that everyone follows this fundamental concept of separation of State and religion, including Judge Napolitano.

Declaration of Independence

In Congress, July 4, 1776

The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America, When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. -- That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, -- That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security. -- Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his Assent to Laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his Governors to pass Laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his Assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other Laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of Representation in the Legislature, a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public Records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures

He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the Legislative powers, incapable of Annihilation, have returned to the People at large for their exercise; the State remaining in the mean time exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavoured to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the Laws for Naturalization of Foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migrations hither, and raising the conditions of new Appropriations of Lands.

He has obstructed the Administration of Justice, by refusing his Assent to Laws for establishing Judiciary powers.

He has made Judges dependent on his Will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of New Offices, and sent hither swarms of Officers to harrass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, Standing Armies without the Consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the Military independent of and superior to the Civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his Assent to their Acts of pretended Legislation:

For Quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them, by a mock Trial, from punishment for any Murders which they should commit on the Inhabitants of these States:

For cutting off our Trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing Taxes on us without our Consent:

For depriving us in many cases, of the benefits of Trial by Jury:

For transporting us beyond Seas to be tried for pretended offences For abolishing the free System of English Laws in a neighbouring Province, establishing therein an Arbitrary government, and enlarging its Boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument

For taking away our Charters, abolishing our most valuable Laws, and altering fundamentally the Forms of our Governments:

or introducing the same absolute rule into these Colonies:

For suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated Government here, by declaring us out of his Protection and waging War against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our Coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is at this time transporting large Armies of foreign Mercenaries to compleat the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of Cruelty & perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the Head of a civilized nation

He has constrained our fellow Citizens taken Captive on the high Seas to bear Arms against their Country, to become the executioners of their friends and Brethren, or to fall themselves by their Hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavoured to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian Savages, whose known rule of warfare, is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these Oppressions We have Petitioned for Redress in the most humble terms: Our repeated Petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A Prince whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a Tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have We been wanting in attentions to our Brittish brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which, would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our Separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, Enemies in War, in Peace Friends.

We, therefore, the Representatives of the united States of America, in General Congress, Assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the Name, and by Authority of the good People of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of Right ought to be Free and Independent States; that they are Absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain, is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as Free and Independent States, they have full Power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, establish Commerce, and to do all other Acts and Things which Independent States may of right do. And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes and our sacred Honor.

Obituaries

Donald Rumsfeld, Secretary of Defense

Donald Rumsfeld, the U.S. Secretary of Defense under President Gerald Ford from 1975 to 1977 and again under President George W. Bush from 2001 to 2006, died June 30 at his home in Taos, New Mexico of multiple myeloma at the age of 88.

In his first term as Secretary of Defense, Rumsfeld was the youngest ever to serve in that role, at 43, while at the time that he reentered the position in 2001, he was the oldest Secretary of Defense ever appointed, at 68.

As Rumsfeld was appointed Secretary of Defense in 1975, the long Vietnam War had only recently ended, and the U.S. military was transitioning back to a voluntary force with the draft no longer necessary. The U.S. was also not at war when Rumsfeld arrived at the Pentagon in 2001 to revisit the job – but that would shortly change. After the terrorist attacks on September 11, 2001, he oversaw the Afghanistan and Iraq Wars, establishing the "Rumsfeld Doctrine," a strategy that called for quick response to threats with small numbers of ground forces and heavy reliance on air strikes.

Rumsfeld was widely criticized for his handling of the Iraq War, including by a prominent group of retired generals that spoke out about what they called his incompetence. Also controversial in Rumsfeld's term was his support for torture of prisoners of war, and several lawsuits were filed against Rumsfeld and other government officials over the treatment of prisoners in facilities including Abu Ghraib. Rumsfeld resigned in 2006, though he was unwaveringly defended by President Bush.

A U.S. Navy veteran, Rumsfeld also represented Illinois in the as well as a Soap Opera Digest Award in 1996. U.S. House of Representatives from 1963 to 1969 and was Ford's Chief of Staff from 1974 to 1975. He was a business leader in the pharmaceutical and technological industries, at companies including G.D. Searle & Company and Gilead Sciences, Inc., in the years between the Ford and Bush administrations. Rumsfeld was an early mentor to Vice President Dick Cheney.

Delia Fiallo, wrote Spanish telenovelas

Delia Fiallo, a Cuban-American romance novelist and screenwriter who wrote dozens of popular telenovelas for Latin American television, died June 29 at her home in Coral Gables, Florida at the age of 96.

Born in Cuba, Fiallo began writing radionovelas for Cuban radio in the 1940s. As television became more widely available in the 1950s, she made the switch to writing telenovelas, finding a large audience with her melodramas.

Fiallo left Cuba for Miami in the 1960s and continued her writing career there, writing romance novels as well as telenovelas. Her telenovelas included "Kassandra," "Cristal," "Peregrina," and

"A telenovela is basically about sentiment," she told Variety in 1996. "If you don't make the public cry, you won't achieve anything."

John Langley, created 'Cops' TV show

John Langley, a TV producer best known for creating the hit reality show "Cops," died June 26 of a heart attack while competing in an off-road race in Baja, Mexico at the age of 78.

When Langley came up with his idea for "Cops" in the mid-1980s, reality TV was not yet the phenomenon it would become. In fact, he had trouble finding a network that was interested in his concept.

No other show was doing anything like what Langley envisioned for "Cops," filming police in action and presenting the results without a narrator - and without reenactments, relying instead on the actual footage.

But Fox finally took a chance on "Cops" in 1989, and the show went on to run for 32 seasons, moving to the Spike network in 2013 before being cancelled in 2020.

"Cops" - and its iconic theme song - became a cultural phenomenon, influencing the development of reality TV and earning Langley the nickname "the Godfather of Reality TV.

Langley also produced shows including "Inside American Jail," "Undercover Stings," and "Video Justice."

"I really believe in the show, obviously, and I kept turning down anybody's modifications of it," Langley told Parade in 2014. "They wanted me to put in music. I'd said no. They wanted me to add a narrator. I said no. They wanted me to do recreations. I'd said no. I just stuck to my guns. I thought it was a pretty simple idea that was straightforward and doable, but no one quite saw it. Now everybody

Stuart Damon, starred in 'General Hospital'

Stuart Damon, an actor best known for his 30-year starring role as Dr. Alan Quartermaine on the soap opera "General Hospital," died June 29 of kidney failure at the age of 84.

Damon was a Broadway actor in his early years, starring in productions including "Do I Hear a Waltz?" He played the Prince in a popular 1965 TV version of "Cinderella," and he appeared on the British stage and on British TV shows including "The New Avengers" and "The Adventures of Black Beauty."

Damon joined the cast of "General Hospital" in 1977, playing the hospital's chief of staff. He remained with the show for three decades.

His character died in 2007, but Damon continued appearing as a ghost through 2008 and in occasional episodes through 2013.

He won a Daytime Emmy Award for Best Supporting Actor in 1999,

Damon also appeared on the "General Hospital" spinoff, "Port Charles," as well as on other soap operas including "As the World Turns" and "Days of Our Lives."

Johnny Solinger, metal band singer

Johnny Solinger, the singer for the metal band Skid Row from 1999 to 2015, died June 26 after announcing he was suffering from liver failure at the age of 55.

Solinger joined Skid Row in 1999, after the band decided to reform without original lead singer Sebastian Bach following their 1996 breakup.

Skid Row released several albums during Solinger's tenure, though they didn't have the success of their early days. Among their singles was "I Remember You Two," a new version of their 1989 Top Solinger also released a solo country album in 2008, and he had previously formed the band Solinger in the early 1990s.

"We are having as much fun as we've ever had and we've always had fun," Solinger said in 2012. "I think there were 20,000 people as far as the eye could see at last weekend's shows. People are having a great time, they're not finding what they're looking for on the radio so they are going back to the rock and roll they love which is why these festivals are just getting bigger and bigger.'

Ray MacDonnell, actor on 'All My Children'

Ray MacDonnell, an actor best known for starring as Dr. Joe Martin on "All My Children" for 40 years, died June 10 at his home in Chappaqua, New York of natural causes at the age of 93.

MacDonnell was an original cast member of "All My Children" when it debuted in 1970. His Dr. Joe Martin was the patriarch of the show's Martin family.

MacDonnell remained on the show until 2009, retiring when production moved from New York to California. Later, he returned for several additional episodes, including the 2011 series finale.

Prior to his time on "All My Children," MacDonnell played Philip Capice on "The Edge of Night" in the 1960s. He played the title character in a 1967 pilot for a live-action "Dick Tracy" TV show that was never picked up.

Ellen McIlwaine, singer and guitarist

Ellen McIlwaine, a singer and slide guitarist known for her bluesy rock music, died June 23 at a hospice center in Calgary, Alberta of esophageal cancer at the age of 75.

McIlwaine began playing professionally in the 1960s, impressing listeners with her skill as a guitarist. She played with notable $\frac{1}{2}$ musicians of the day including Jimi Hendrix, Muddy Waters, and Taj McIlwaine formed the band Fear Itself in the late '60s and released a self-titled album in 1968, but she left the band before long, frustrated that being a woman set her apart from her bandmates.

One of the first successful female rock guitarists, she excelled even in the face of sexism in the music world. She went on to record memorable covers of Stevie Wonder's "Higher Ground" and Blind Faith's "Can't Find My Way Home."

Though McIlwaine didn't find significant fame in the U.S., she was more successful in Canada and Australia.

Jack Ingram, NASCAR hall of famer

Jack Ingram, a NASCAR Hall of Famer known as "The Iron Man," who won Xfinity Series championships in 1982 and 1985, died June 25 at age 84.

Ingram got his start in NASCAR at the New Asheville Speedway in Asheville, North Carolina. He had 31 Xfinity Series wins, setting a series record that held until 1997.

In his earlier racing days, Ingram raced in the Late Model Sportsman series, winning three titles and 286 races. His victorious NASCAR years came relatively late in his career, when he was in his 40s and 50s.

Ingram was a member of the NASCAR Hall of Fame and the International Motorsports Hall of Fame.

"Back in those days you had to race several times a week all over the place if you wanted to win a championship," Ingram said in 2017. "One weekend over Labor Day in 1973 I raced in six races over five days, five states. I raced over 1,750 laps over that period and won four of those races. After that people started calling me the Iron Man.'

Jackie Lane, actress in 'Doctor Who'

Jackie Lane, an English actress best known for playing Dorothea "Dodo" Chaplet, the First Doctor's companion, on "Doctor Who," died June 23 at the age of 79.

Lane appeared on "Doctor Who" in 1966, starring alongside William Hartnell as the First Doctor. She was the eighth person to play a companion, the men and women who travel alongside the Doctor as friends and assistants.

Lane starred in 19 episodes during the show's third season. She also appeared on TV shows including "Coronation Street" and "Compact," as well as joining the 2013 special "Doctor Who Live: The Afterparty.

In later years, Lane headed an acting agency's voiceover department.

Warner Bros. gives sneak peek of updated studio tour

The studio lot tour is reopening this month and it features a new "Friends" boutique.

By Alex Dominguez Staff Writer

The Warner Bros. Studio Tour held a media preview event last week in anticipation of the attraction's grand reopening.

After an over 15-month hiatus, the Studio Tour returns with brand new exhibits and insight into the Warner Bros.

Upon the tour's start, guests will enter the "Storytelling

Dine Local

Showcase," getting an in depth look at the studio's nearly 100-year history in tv, film and animation.

Guests will then tour the lot with an expert guide, before disembarking their shuttle at the improved Studio 48 sound stage.

Brand new to the tour's Stage 48: from Script to Screen is the "Friends" boutique featuring props, costumes, and iconic set pieces. It joins an expanded Central Perk Café with specialty food and beverages.

Actress Maggie Wheeler, known for her portrayal of fanfavorite "Friends" character Janice, said that the space "feels like the show."

"I think this is incredible," said Wheeler. "When I had my walkthrough earlier, I said, 'I don't know how you're going to get people to leave."

"I think people are going to be really excited to walk through and spend some time here"

The grand finale of the tour will see guests enter into "Action and Magic Made Here," where they will be able to fully immerse themselves into the Wizarding World of Harry Potter and the DC Superhero Universe with props, costumes, unique photo opportunities and magical hands-on activities.

Concluding the tour is an elegant display of iconic treasures from Warner Bros. most beloved films and TV shows in the "Celebration of Awards Season."

Guests' day will end in the massive Warner Bros. Studio Store, which features a massive selection of exclusive merchandise based around their favorite Warner Bros. tv shows and movies.

Patty Jenkins, awardwinning director of the recent "Wonder Woman" films, said

Residential • Commercial Apartments • Condominiums

Warner Bros. sits on a "treasure trove of legendary history."

"I think it's incredible that people get to come in and look at photographs, look at props, look at Warner's address book, look at these things because our entire city is based on this film industry, and what a major anchor Warner Bros. has been to building that industry," said Jenkins. "Of course, there should be a great museum to celebrate and honor that."

The Warner Bros. Studio
Tour is open on weekends only through July 11. After July 15, tours will operate five days a week (remaining closed on Tuesdays and Wednesdays), departing every 30 minutes from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Tickets are available online for $69 for adults (ages 11 and up) and $59 for children ages 5 to 10 at wbstudiotour. com. Additionally, Southern California residents are eligible for a special rate of $57 on weekdays only, through September 30. Advanced reservations are required.

Warner Bros. Studio Tour Hollywood is located at 3400 Warner Blvd. in Burbank.
