County could lift mask mandate

■ Health officials explained the metrics L.A. County must meet before mask mandates could possibly go away.

LOS ANGELES – Los Angeles County Public Health Director Dr. Barbara Ferrer on Tuesday laid out the strict requirements it will take to lift mask-wearing Speaking to the L.A. County Board of Supervisors, Ferrer said her department has developed a list of key metrics the county must meet before the mask mandate can be lifted for large outdoor events and in indoor settings with less than 1,000 people, such as workplaces.

Most notably, the county must have three consecutive weeks of "moderate" virus transmission as defined by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. That means it must have a cumulative sevenday new case rate of less than 50 per 100,000 residents.

According to the CDC, the county's current rate is 83 per 100,000 residents, landing the county in the "substantial" transmission category. Ferrer noted that the county's rate last week was about 72, meaning virus transmission has actually increased in the last seven days.

Other criteria that must be reached to consider lifting masking requirements are three consecutive weeks of low hospitalization numbers, a full-vaccination rate of 80% of residents aged 12 and older, and no emerging reports of widely circulating COVID-19 "variants of concern" that could lead to new surges of infections.

For indoor settings of people less than 1,000 people, including worksites, all of the same criteria must be met, and such settings must have a vaccineverification system in place and attacker Raymond Arroyo. Senior customers, with other other goal. requirements for those with approved vaccine exemptions.

As of Oct. 28, 80% of county residents aged 12 and up have received at least one dose of vaccine, and 72% are fully vaccinated.

Ferrer said she is hopeful that L.A. County will reach 80% full vaccination of all residents in that age group by the winter holidays.

Hospitalization have fallen sharply in L.A. County since the summer surge of cases that saw patient numbers reach 1,800. However, the decline has plateaued in recent weeks, with the number of hospitalized COVID-19 patients in L.A. County at 653 as of Tuesday, according to state figures.

L.A. County has maintained strict mask requirements despite growing vaccination numbers and downward trends in COVID-19 hospitalizations and infections.

With much fanfare, California lifted its statewide mask mandate for most businesses on June 15. However, following a surge of cases, L.A. County reinstituted its own mask mandate just one month later, on July 17.

Masks are required in all indoor public setting in L.A. County regardless of vaccination status. In restaurants, stadiums and entertainment venues, such as movie theaters, they can only be removed while eating or drinking.

Meanwhile, beginning Thursday, anyone entering bars, breweries, wineries, distilleries, nightclubs and lounges in L.A. County had to show proof of full vaccination.

Then, beginning on Monday, Nov. 8, a much more sweeping vaccination mandate will take effect in the city of Los Angeles, where proof of full vaccination will be required to enter a long list of businesses, including restaurants, bars, coffee shops, salons, theaters and gyms.

Santa Fe High's dream season presses on

■ The boys' water polo team advanced after traveling to Whitney and winning, 10-6.

By John M. Sherrard Contributor

CERRITOS - The dream season continues for the Santa Fe High School boys water polo team, as they won a CIF-Southern Section Division 6 first-round playoff game Tuesday over host Whitney, 10-6, at the Cerritos

With the win, Santa Fe moves on to the second round and will face Heritage of Menifee Thursday (Nov. 4). Results were unavailable at press time.

The Patriots, who had a firstround bye, are 13-7 and won the Sunbelt league and have averaged 12 goals per game this season.

If Santa Fe (20-9) advances to the quarterfinals on Saturday, they will be at Lakewood (14-11) or host San Bernardino (5-8).

"I'm so proud of the team and Jacob [Correa]," Santa Fe Athletic Director Steve Hendry said.
"They were recognized by ASB on campus [Wednesday] morning during break. It was fantastic to hear the cheers from the entire student body for them. Looking forward to (Thursday's game)."

After qualifying for the first post season appearance in over 30 years, the Chiefs have now made even more history with their first win in CIF in ages.

Woollery cut into the Santa Fe lead for Whitney with a goal, but Rivas answered with another goal and the Chiefs took a 5-2 advantage into halftime.

Santa Fe stretched the lead to four goals, 6-2, at the 5:05 mark of the third period with a penalty shot by Salcedo. The goal was the third of the game for Salcedo.

With just over a minute left in the period, a flurry of three goals were scored, two of which came from the Chiefs.

Lopez was constantly doubleteamed throughout the game, but he worked through it, scoring

"Getting double-teamed on, it's kind of a compliment, but it's also a curse," Lopez said. "It just sucks. As long as you go to the challenge and you overcome it and score a goal, it feels amazing.'

Whitney upgraded its defense in the fourth period, sometimes double and triple teaming the Santa Fe players and scored more in that period than in the previous three periods.

Wang and Woollery started the scoring for Whitney with two goals in 26 seconds, to cut the lead to, 8-5.

Watwani scored his only goal of the game and the last goal for the Wildcats 21 seconds later.

Lopez closed out the scoring for Santa Fe with his second goal of the game with 2:33 left in the game for the 10-6 lead.

"It wasn't our best game and we have a lot to work on," Salcedo said. "It was brutal competition that we're playing in. It was hard because we weren't communicating that much.

"The first time in CIF is very exciting and to do it with the people I've been playing with for four years, It's just crazy. Because, it started off as a joke and then now we put our minds to it and said, 'we can actually do this.' We did it and we're so happy that we did (win).

"[Getting him vaccinated] is something his mother and I are still discussing," said Cisneros. "We are not vaccinated either."

Councilwoman Rios conducts outreach to encourage people to get vaccinated, and encourages parents to consider getting their children vaccinated as well.

"I do a lot of my personal outreach to stress the importance of getting a vaccine," said Rios. "I chose to get the vaccine because we had a loss in our family due to COVID. If we have something in place to protect our youth, then parents should seriously consider that option for them."

According to the California Department of Public Health 120,899 cases of COVID were found in children under five, and 565,915 COVID cases were found in kids aged five -17 in the state.

Since the event, the Pfizer vaccine was approved for children aged five -11 years-old. Doctors continue to encourage parents to vaccinate their kids and have addressed frequently questions about the vaccine.

Whittier Adult School adds plumbing class

WHITTIER -Whittier Union Adult School students are learning the fundamentals of residential plumbing as part of the school's newly launched plumbing course, which provides students with the opportunity to become apprentices and graduate with work-ready skills.

Under the guidance of instructor Giovanni Masia - and with a newly built plumbing model classroom - students are learning the fundamentals of residential plumbing such measuring, cutting and installation of pipe in accordance with the California Plumbing Code guidelines.

"It's a great opportunity to be able to pass on the knowledge that I have gained to students who may be interested in entering the field," Masia said.

Additionally, students will have the opportunity to gain apprenticeships through their local plumbers' union, enabling them to hone their knowledge and apply their skills while working for local companies.

Whittier Union School's plumbing course is taught Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays. The next course begins Jan. 11, 2022; interested students can enroll at any time by calling (562) 698-8121 x1300 or visiting the Whittier Union Adult School website.

"The concept behind the Whittier Union Adult School is to develop short courses that can lead to a significant jump in income," Assistant Principal Juan Anzaldo said. "We are committed to leading students toward a job with viable wages so that they can pay for things like a mortgage or take care of their families.

DoorDash driver shot in La Mirada

LA MIRADA - A woman who says she was working for DoorDash as a delivery driver was shot in La Mirada Tuesday night.

The shooting occurred at 13000 El Moro Avenue near the 5 Freeway and Rosecrans Avenue around 11:40 p.m.

Investigators say she was shot at twice while she was in her car. One of the shots went through the door and struck her.

The woman was able to take herself to the hospital where she called 911. Her condition is unknown and it's unclear if she remains hospitalized. The woman, who has not been identified, told investigators she was being aggressively followed by a driver before getting to a stop sign.

It's also unclear if she was making a delivery at the time of the shooting.

According to an update issued Wednesday morning, the sheriff's department said it's investigating a similar incident that occurred just hours before in Whittier.

Obituaries

Ronnie Wilson, co-founder of Gap Band

Ronnie Wilson, a co-founder of the Gap Band, known for funk and R&B hits including "You Dropped a Bomb on Me," died Nov. 2 at age 73.

Wilson formed the Gap Band in the late 1960s alongside his brothers, Charlie and Robert Wilson. They took the name from Greenwood, Archer, and Pine streets in their hometown of Tulsa, Oklahoma, site of the 1921 Tulsa race massacre.

Ronnie Wilson played flugelhorn, trumpet, keyboards, and percussion, as well as singing backing vocals. After unsuccessful early albums, the Gap Band had hits on R&B radio with 1970s singles including "Shake," "I Don't Believe You Want to Get Up and Dance (Oops!)," and "Steppin' (Out)."

Their biggest successes came with their 1982 album "Gap Band IV," including the Top 40 hits 'You Dropped a Bomb on Me" and "Early in the Morning.

In later years, Wilson worked as a producer and in music ministry at a church in San Antonio, Texas.

Dr. Aaron Beck, pioneer in cognitive behavioral therapy

Aaron Beck, psychotherapist who was a pioneer in the development of cognitive behavioral therapy, died Nov. 1 at age 100.

Dr. Beck developed the cognitive groundbreaking behavioral therapy while he was a psychiatrist at the University of Pennsylvania.

The therapy treats depression and other psychiatric problems through changes in thinking and modifying behaviors. Studies have shown cognitive therapy to be very effective in treating disorders.

Dr. Beck co-founded the nonprofit Beck Institute for Cognitive Therapy with his daughter, Dr. Judith Beck, and authored many books on the subject.

"These people have some capacity to do better, but they have all these defeatist attitudes and expectations," Dr. Beck told the New York Times. "They assume they're going to fail."

Jo-Carroll Dennison, oldest surviving Miss America

Jo-Carroll Dennison, an actress and the oldest surviving former Miss America, having won the pageant in 1942, died Oct. 18 at age 97.

in a medicine show with her

She didn't plan on pursuing a career on stage as an adult, but when a banker stopped her on the street in Tyler, Texas one day to ask if she'd represent his bank in the town beauty pageant, she reluctantly agreed.

Dennison won not only that pageant but a succession of bigger pageants that led her to Miss America.

With a talent performance of "Deep in the Heart of Texas," Dennison was crowned Miss America 1942. She was one of the first pageant winners to object to wearing a swimsuit as she toured in the year after her victory.

With her win coming during World War II, Dennison frequently entertained U.S. troops as she represented the Miss America pageant. Her pin-up became one of the most popular among service members.

Dennison received an acting contract with 20th Century Fox shortly after being crowned. Though her acting career remained minor, she had roles in movies including "Winged Victory" and "The Jolson Story,' and she appeared on TV's "Dick Tracy" and "The Abbott and Costello Show."

"I'm glad to have lived long enough to see how women's fight against inequality, sexual harassment and abuse has finally come to the fore," Dennison said in a video tribute to the 100th anniversary of Miss America.

Rose Lee Maphis, country singer with her husband

Rose Lee Maphis, a country singer and guitarist who performed with her husband, Joe Maphis, as "Mr. and Mrs. Country Music," died Oct. 26 at Maphis got her start singing on "The Old Dominion Barn Dance" out of Richmond, Virginia, where she met her future husband.

They relocated together to California in 1951, where they became pioneers of the burgeoning Bakersfield Sound.

There, they co-wrote the Dennison grew up traveling song "Dim Lights, Thick Smoke (and Loud, Loud Music)," a honky-tonk standard that they first recorded in 1953. Their other popular songs included "Whiskey Is the Devil in Liquid Form" and "Where Honky-Tonk Angels Spread Their Wings.'

> Maphis released a number of records with her husband, as well as two solo albums, a selftitled debut in 1961 and 1964's 'Hootenanny Star.'

The family relocated to Nashville in 1968, where continued recording together until Joe's 1986 death. Maphis also began working in the costume department at Opryland.

In later years, she became a beloved greeter at the entrance to the Country Music Hall of Fame and Museum.

Pat Martino, jazz guitarist overcame amnesia

Pat Martino, a jazz guitarist who overcame amnesia after 1980 surgery and relearned his instrument for a successful second career, died Nov. 1 at age

Martino began performing professionally while he was still in his teens, and his early career included working with musicians including Lloyd Price and Willis Jackson.

In his 20s, Martino started experiencing seizures caused by arteriovenous malformation. In 1980, one of these seizures nearly killed him, and he underwent emergency surgery to remove a large tumor.

The surgery left him with amnesia and no recollection of his career or how to play guitar.

He relearned the instrument and was able to recover his mastery of it, releasing his comeback album in 1987.

Martino continued recording and performing for most of his life, receiving several Grammy nominations. In 2004, he was named Guitar Player of the Year by DownBeat magazine.

Downey's Dia de los Muertos Festival a visually stunning experience

■ Thousands attended Dia de los Muertos in Downey, celebrating the lives of those who have past on.

By Lorine Parks Society Editor

DOWNEY - A giant altar of marigolds greeted festival patrons at this year's Dia de los Muertos

As the artistic focal point and the first thing you see as you enter from the Firestone side, the Downey Community Altar, Ofrenda a la comunidad de Downey, sits in the newly designed plaza that fronts the Downey Theatre, labeled for the day the Plaza of Memories, or, Plaza de Recuerdos. Downey families, with babies in prams, seniors on walkers and even dogs pulled in carts, came to enjoy the sunny afternoon.

It's Downey eighth Festival of la Dia de los Muertos, and marigolds are the signal flower. The fragrance of these bright orange and yellow flowers is said to lead souls on this day from their burial place to their family homes. And this day is above all a family time, to celebrate lives of ancestors, and to enjoy the life of today.

Cempasúchi is the Aztec name of the marigold native to Mexico, and they were everywhere. An art gallerygoer wore a hat brimming with marigolds, and artist Caroline Estrada-del Toro wore a long painted marigold metal necklace and earrings from Nyarit, her native state in Mexico.

The Plaza Altar was built by seventh generation altarista Rosanna Esparza Ahrens, the daughter and protégé of Ofelia Esparza, the grande dame of L.A. altar making. In it were placed family photos that Downey residents contributed, to make it a real ofrenda.

Presented by the City of Downey and the Downey Theatre, the Festival this year featured an art show at the Downey Theatre, put on by the Downey Arts Downey's Festival is recognized as one of the Southland's most outstanding, due in part to the indoor/outdoor setting, and also to the overall presentation that includes color-coordinated booths and decorations. The sky had cleared to a bright blue after rain earlier in the week, and the temperature was in the 70's. The day that began with plumed Aztec dancers in the Civic Plaza would end with a ticketed performance in the Downey Theatre by the Mariachi

Pat Gil is vice president of the Downey Arts Coalition, which presented the "Ofrendas" art show. Ofrendas are said to be a bridge between two worlds, and the walls were decked with paintings, and a trio of painted and hammered repousse tin portraits that shone in the light.

El Dia de Los Muertos is a family affair, a celebration of life and a time to honor those generations that have already passed. That dancing skeleton in black lace mantilla and roses? She could be your abuela. That skeleton in a black top hat and cane? Tio Marco.

Altars are intended to welcome back the departed, and most have candles and pungent flowers like marigolds to help the spirits find their way, as well as their favorite food and drink and personal belongings. A glass of water, because they will be thirsty after their long journey. The artists in the show showcased a variety of imagined returning spirits.

The traditional icon, the Calaveras Catrina, comes from a skull caricature drawn about 1910 by the Mexican illustrator Jose Guadalupe Posada. Posadas's satiric version of high society, soon to be toppled by the Mexican Revolution, had figures, regardless of occupation, class or status, that were represented with skulls for faces. So skeletons are dressed in fancy turn of the 19th century finery.

In the Hispanic culture, children are not sheltered from the reality of death. Children attend funerals regardless of their age. Death is talked about openly. With these caterinas, youngsters are taught how to mock death.

The Theatre lobby was brightly decorated with its colorful posters. On the patio live music was playing, and a beer and wine garden was open. Outside on the plaza again, families strolled through the pedestrian area that had been created in the parking area of the Civic Center. One promenade was for speciality food trucks, and the Taco Cartel trailer stood next to pupusas, French Crepes Bonaparte, and The Only Puerto Rican Food Truck in Los Angeles. Music from the Theatre patio driften over, and the city had thoughtfully provided picnic tables and benches.

Another avenue with the banner Mercado was lined with bright white pavilions sellings artisan jewelry and decorated teeshirts. Calaveras y Diabiltos said another that sold skull masks. Most people dressed casually but many girls and women had caterina make-up, white face with sugar skull designs, and fancy floral gowns with ornate headdresses. Everyone was masked, except the tiniest.

A few children wore their Hallowe'en costumes, and Wonder Woman, Superman and Spiderman pranced around. But the Dia de los Muertos is far from being a "Mexican Hallowe'en." This same night before All Saints Day is also celebrated in northern Europe, as a time when spirits walk among the living, yes, but with faceless, formless and frightening ghosts, creatures with no name and alien to humans.

The altars are the heart of any Dia de los Muertos, and are composed with love, honor and respect. Walking beyond the food and the mercado area, we find some outstanding examples of a special kind. In the parking lot area around the Legacy Church (formerly the First Baptist), were car altars. Built in opened car trunks and growing out onto the pavement, these were more concentrated and personal, with the floral arches and photos of the departed in happy times with stuffed toys and live balloons. The mood everywhere was festive and happy and still respectful.

Back at the Embassy Suites side of the Theatre Plaza, families gravitated for picture-taking to a trio of giant caterinas made of papel maché.

The three glamorous skeletal ladies, each easily eight feet tall, stood on a bed of marigolds, their skull heads wearing gracious hats, and one carried a black lace parasol. Toddlers were posing next to these extravagant figures, and one elderly lady was helped out of her wheelchair so she could stand beside them too.

These grand ladies of the afterlife, the emblem of Day of the Dead, tie together the times and their interpretation of death. It has been said that their elegant dress suggests celebration, the smile reminding us that there is perhaps comfort in an acceptance of mortality, and that the dead should be commemorated, not feared.

The marigold arches on the Theatre Plaza had little lights looped in them, and the scene would soon become enchanted in the evening. The stately palm tree trunks were festooned with garlands of marigolds and 5-ft. wide butterflies.

I left while there was still daylight, but the shadows were growing long over the Plaza of Memories, El Plaza de Recuerdos.
