Year in Review: Sports made a comeback in 2021

■ La Mirada girls soccer won a CIF title, while John Glenn softball and Santa Fe boys water polo made history.

By John M. Sherrard Contributor

NORWALK - What a year it's been for the area high school, college and university athletic teams.

Let's take a look at just a few of the stories, in no particular order.

It all started with sports finally coming back after months and months of inactivity because of the pandemic of 2020.

Biola University started it off with men's basketball coming back first in mid-January, which was followed by the first high school competition – cross country in February.

The high school sports scene gradually started to take shape and get back to a bit of normalcy, with a limited football schedule, but no playoffs.

That was followed by the usual spring sports; baseball, softball, track and field, boys volleyball, etc.

A few two-sport athletes had a tough decision to make, once it was announced that basketball would play in the spring, along with baseball and other spring sports.

However, all-in-all, the athletic directors - Linda Parra (John Glenn), Christina Mead (La Mirada), David Snyder (Norwalk), Steve Hendry (Santa Fe) and Rich Avina (St. Paul) - had their hands full these last two seasons and did a great job organizing schedules for all of the sports, which were all compressed into a spring

A few of the bigger highlights this year was the La Mirada girls soccer team winning the CIF Division 2 Championship and Biola's men's basketball coach Dave Holmquist winning his 1,000th career basketball game. Meanwhile, the Santa Fe boys water polo team qualified for its first CIF appearance in over 30 years, while the John Glenn softball team qualified for its first-ever CIF game.

In addition, Norwalk High School completed its beautiful sports complex, St. Paul made a big time hire of a new boys basketball coach – Patrick Roy – and local Olympic swimming hopeful Kayla Han made a big splash at the 2021 trials.

Finally, Biola's softball team finished as the NCAA DII runner-up and they also debuted their first-ever men's water polo program, while Cerritos College finished second in California in wrestling.

Here are their stories:

La Mirada - Girls CIF Soccer Champions

The Matadores girls soccer team won its fourth CIF title in school history with a 2-1 win over Saugus in May.

La Mirada previously won its first title, which was a cochampionship in 2008, followed by back-to-back titles in 2015-16. They also won a state championship in 2016.

"This one was really special, because it was D2 and because it was COVID and a bummer year," longtime La Mirada coach Dave Christensen said.

Scoring the winning goal in the 95th minute on a penalty kick was senior defender Marissa Marquez. Sophomore forward Cassandra Villanueva scored in the 35th minute to tie the game, 1-1.

Leading the way the whole season was senior goalkeeper Sage Strohman, who was named CIF Player of the Year. Strohman has since entered West Point and finished this past season as the starting goalie for the Black Knights.

Norwalk High School Sports Complex

After a two-year project, the beautiful Norwalk High School Sports Complex was dedicated this past Fall for its official opening.

The brand new, all-turf stadium and sports complex project is the result of a $375 million bond measure passed by Norwalk residents in 2014. The $33 million project began construction in October of 2019.

The complex consists of a new stadium, baseball and softball fields, soccer fields, tennis courts, a field house and concession stand. "The culmination of a two-year journey has led us to this grand opening of this amazing sports complex," said Norwalk-La Mirada Unified School District Superintendent John Lopez, at the grand opening.

Making its official debut on the field was the inaugural football game for the Lancers Friday, April 2.

Santa Fe Boys Water Polo

For the first time in over 30 years the Chiefs Boys Water Polo team qualified for the CIF playoffs, after a breakout season with a 20-10 record. In addition to advancing to its first playoff game in years, the Chiefs also won their first CIF game, a 10-6 win over Whitney in a Division 6 first-round game.

They fell, 11-2, in the second round, but first-year coach Jacob Correa was proud of his team.

"From the beginning they doubted themselves, but with practice and repetition they were able to get it done," said Correa, who was in his fourth year as coach.

"Our strengths were teamwork," said Correa, after the win over Whitney. "We worked the ball around and didn't have any bad possessions."

Leading the team this year was senior hole set Nathan Salcedo with 110 goals. The other three big scorers for Santa Fe were Max Rivas with 71 goals, Eric Lopez (54) and Joshua Lara Longtime Santa Fe Athletic Director Steve Hendry was very proud of his young coach.

"Jacob (Correa) has done a great job with the entire aquatics program," Hendry said. "He works well with the athletes and the administration. His focus throughout the last year and a half has been the safety of the kids.

"Jacob has definitely changed the culture of our boys water program."

Peralta plays two sports concurrently

One of the multiple sport athletes was Santa Fe Boys Athlete of the Year, senior Joey Peralta, who couldn't play the two sports that he loved – basketball and baseball. He had to make a choice. It was baseball.

Playing all four years for basketball coach Leonard Romero, Peralta played a full season of baseball for coach Pierre Romo, but on the last day of the basketball season on senior night, Peralta suited up one last time and he shined, scoring a game-high 21 points.

John Glenn Softball

After 31 years of not qualifying for the CIF-Southern Section playoffs, the John Glenn Eagles made a run in 2021 that will be remembered for some time.

Glen, coached by Larry Leal, in his third year, not only qualified, but won its first-ever playoff game and won a secondround game before falling in the quarterfinals.

In the two wins, they combined for 24 runs, shutting out the teams both times.

"It feels good because it hasn't happened in a long time," said Glenn junior pitcher, Gabby Ortega of their CIF wins.

This years' team is mostly freshmen, but the next two incoming classes also look to carry the Eagles for the next few years

"What an incredible run our softball program had this year," Parra said of the successful year. "John Glenn High School and the Norwalk La Mirada Union School District is so proud of the accomplishments of our Varsity Softball program this year."

St. Paul High School

A new era began with the hiring of the boys basketball coach Patrick Roy this past summer.

The announcement was made by first-year athletic director Rich Avina.

Roy comes to St. Paul with a wealth of experience, winning two CIF titles at Inglewood High School "This is a great day and a great fit for St. Paul basketball," said Avina, at the time of the hiring, Roy came into the season with a lifetime record of 502 wins and 123 losses.

Kayla Han - Olympic swimming hopeful

At the young age of 12, Kayla Han became one of the youngest swimmers to qualify for the US Olympic trials this past summer.

Han, now 13, who swims out of the Splash Aquatics Center in La Mirada for the Armada Swim Club, competed in the grueling 400 Individual Medley.

She missed her opportunity, but had an incredible swim in the 400 IM.

Getting to the Olympic Trials was one thing, but the biggest splash Han made was an unbelievable comeback and win in her 400 IM race in the B Final.

The 5'5" swimmer, who had already missed the cut for the summer Olympics, had a fantastic swim as she trailed three swimmers heading into the final turn. She eventually won on a monumental final lap.

"It's definitely a step closer to my dream of getting an Olympic gold medal," Han said. "It's a really good experience for the next Olympics and I'm still training hard for the Olympics in three years.

Concurring with the dreams of Han was former Olympic swimmer Patty Caretto-Brown.

"She definitely has a very, very promising career ahead of her," Caretto-Brown said. "She is definitely an Olympic hopeful for 2024 in Paris. It's got to be so unbelievable for her."

Biola University – Basketball coach Dave Holmquist wins No. 1,000

Longtime Eagles men's basketball coach Dave Holmquist became only the fifth college coach to win 1,000 games.

Holmquist, in his 45 years of coaching, achieved the milestone last February with a 73-51 win over Concordia University.

"When you have such good people, such good teammates that really like and support each other, it makes it so much better. This has been that kind of team," Holmquist said.

In addition to that tremendous milestone, both the women's softball team and men's basketball team had tremendous seasons. Softball finished as runners-up in NCAA DII, falling in the championship game, while the men's basketball team advanced to its first-ever NCAA DII Regional playoffs.

Yellow Heart Memorial demands end to COVID-19 politicization during vigil

■ Despite the harsh weather, organizers and activists with Yellow Heart Memorial held a vigil for the victims of COVID-19.

By Vincent Medina Contributor

NORWALK – The California chapter of Yellow Heart Memorial held a vigil at the Norwalk Arts and Sports Complex on Dec. 23 to remember victims of COVID-19 and advocate for an end to the politicization of the virus.

Dozens of people braved the downpour of rain to mourn as a community for their loved ones who died from the virus.

Rosie Davis, the founder of the national movement, helped organize the vigil with the state's chapter leader Marlene Bojorquez.

"I lost my mother, Mary Castro, to COVID-19 on May 17, 2020. I did the first memorial in my backyard, and I wanted to bring it to a community level because we were all robbed of the opportunity to grieve for our loved ones," said Davis.

New laws going into effect Saturday

NORWALK - Gov. Gavin Newsom has signed 770 bills into law this year, many of them impacting people's daily lives, that will take effect as soon as Ian. 1, 2022.

Here are a few of the more noteworthy ones:

- Animal welfare: Proposition 12 makes metal enclosures that restrict pigs from turning around and cages that prevent hens from opening their wings illegal.
- Minimum wage: SB 3 requires the minimum wage for all industries employing 26 or more employees to rise to $15, and $14 for employers employing 25 or fewer workers.
- Cocktails to go: SB 389 allows getting cocktails and wine to go with your dinner order at restaurants extended until Dec. 31, 2026. The delivery of cocktails alone, however, ends Dec. 31, 2021.
- Traffic safety: AB 43 authorizes local authorities to reduce speed limits to protect the safety of vulnerable groups such as pedestrians and cyclists.
- Non-gender marketing: A new law not taking full effect within marriage the same in every legal sense as any instance of rape. until 2024 mandates that department stores with more than 500 employees must provide a gender-neutral section displaying "a reasonable selection" of items regardless of whether they've been traditionally marketed for either girls or boys. The law does not include clothing. LGBTQ advocates maintain the pink and blue hues of traditional marketing methods pressure children to conform to gender stereotypes.
- Food delivery apps: In an effort to support delivery workers and increase billing transparency, AB 286 makes it illegal for food delivery apps to retain any portion of a tip or gratuity. If the order is for delivery, that tip must go to the individual worker. If the order is for pickup, the gratuity must go to the restaurant.
- Police reform: AB 1475 protects the rights of people arrested but not yet prosecuted, forbidding law enforcement from posting mugshots of those arrested on suspicion of nonviolent crimes
 - Rape: A new law alters California's penal code to make rape

- Police decertification: Another noteworthy new law allows police officers who have committed misconduct to be de-certified. Previously, problematic officers could sometimes find employment in other areas without repercussions. Now, they will have their license revoked and not be able to simply switch departments after being
- Protected time off: Among other things, AB-1033 expands protected unpaid leave under California Family Rights Act to include leave to care for a parent-in-law.
- Vote by mail: California will require elections officials to mail ballots to all registered voters for all elections and will allow any registered voter to vote by mail for any election. AB-37 will also set minimum standards for ballot drop-off boxes. With the expansion of mail-in ballots, election officials will be allowed to process votes early, on the 29th day before any election.

Paging Dr. Frischer...

By Dr. Alan Frischer

As I contemplate dealing with yet another year of COVID, I am motivated to write about resilience. Resilience is that part of our character that either helps us live through tough times, or prevents us from moving forward.

I have found that life teaches us all about resilience, if we are willing to listen. Navigating through hardships is painful, but guides us through the next challenge. We say that youth is wasted on the young. Perhaps this is because age and experience have not yet taught us how to manage and appreciate life. Some do go through hardship early, and if successful, they come out on the other side stronger, smarter, and wiser. Yes...it does indeed take a journey.

No one truly understands what you're experiencing. Perhaps it is difficulties related to the pandemic as it affects your psyche, finances, relationship, job, or physical health. The best words of advice somehow capture in just a few phrases the reality of being human, and illuminate an essential element of our experience. Here are a few quotes about resilience that I found meaningful:

"Do not judge me by my success, judge me by how many times I fell down and got back up again." Nelson Mandela

"You may not control all the events that happen to you, but you can decide not to be reduced by them." Maya Angelou

"My barn having burned down, I can now see the moon." Mizuta Masahide (17th century Japanese poet and samurai)

"Rock bottom became the solid foundation in which I rebuilt my life." J.K. Rowling

"She stood in the storm, and when the wind did not blow her way, she adjusted her sails." Elizabeth Edwards

"Grief and resilience live together." Michelle Obama

"Persistence and resilience only come from having been given the chance to work through difficult problems." Gever Tulley

"No matter how bleak or menacing a situation may appear, it does not entirely own us. It can't take away our freedom to respond, our power to take action." Ryder Carroll

"Life doesn't get easier or more forgiving, we get stronger and more resilient." Steve Maraboli

Let's conclude with Rainer Maria Rilke: "Let everything happen to you. Beauty and terror. Just keep going. No feeling is final."

I wish all of you a year of experiences that bring greater health, happiness, and joy!

The economy happens to be glorious

By Froma Harrop

If Joe Biden takes office, there'll be a "depression the likes of which you've never seen," Donald Trump warned a month before he lost the 2020 presidential election. It didn't happen.

You know that, right?

Also, your 401(k) surely did not "go to hell," as the previous guy predicted. On the contrary, stocks in the S&P 500 are up 26% as the first year of the Biden presidency is about to end.

How good is that? "U.S. financial markets are outperforming the world by the biggest margin in the 21st century" is how Bloomberg News

The U.S. gross domestic product is expected to have grown an extraordinary 5.6% this year, according to economists. And that's after adjusting for inflation.

The unemployment rate is down to 4.2%. Retail sales in the recent Christmas shopping season rose 8% from the same period last year — the biggest gain in 17 years.

As Bloomberg summed it up, "America's economy improved more in Joe Biden's first 12 months than any president during the past 50 years.'

And so how do we explain Biden's lackluster approval ratings, weirdly reasons include distorted media coverage of the economy, a Republican opposition that doesn't want to give Democrats credit, and Democrats who don't want to give themselves credit (and for wholly neurotic

Now, as always, there are economic concerns. Inflation has been cutting into the good news of fattening paychecks for American workers. However, the bubbly retail numbers point to consumers with the means to spend and happy to do it. That consumer credit grew a record 27% in Biden's first year reflects a public confidence about the future.

The supply chain blockages seem to be easing, as witnessed in the fake news of bare store shelves this shopping season. The difficulty in getting parts and products shipped from Asia has raised interest in bringing manufacturing back into this country, and that is a good thing.

The biggest driver of inflation, oil prices, could very well be headed down. "Much needed relief for tight markets is on the way," according to the International Energy Agency. The simple reason is rising oil production. Helping matters was Biden's planned release of 50 million barrels of oil from the U.S. strategic reserves, with similar steps being taken in other countries.

Why Democrats don't shout hosannas for this basically strong economy has long been a mystery. One explanation is that some of the depressed by discontent on how he's managing the economy? The loudest voices in the party, mainly on the left, engage in a culture of complaint. The lefties obsess angrily on what isn't being done for the poor and ignore what is.

> They've been hollering at West Virginia Sen. Joe Manchin for blocking passage of the current Build Back Better plan, even though it is they who screwed it up. All hope is not lost, though. Democrats can trim their overweight wish list, thus avoiding such cheesy tricks as financing the child tax credit for just one year. Manchin does have a point.

> The programs most worth saving are universal preschool, strengthening the Affordable Care Act and fighting climate change. A plan costing $1.8. trillion — a number Manchin has reportedly said he would consider — would still be bold under any previous definition of > Stock market gains do benefit the better-off, but lots of average people have some skin in the game. Sweden has more billionaires per capita than we do while maintaining a dream of a social safety net.

> There's nothing wrong with prosperity. "Happy Days Are Here Again" was the campaign song for Franklin D. Roosevelt - just before he launched the New Deal.

Bowl games? Some players take a pass

By Steve Chapman

College football's bowl season is upon us, raising the question: If the RoofClaim.com Boca Raton Bowl ceased to exist, would anyone notice? But occasionally these games produce news that deserves attention such as when Missouri head coach Eli Drinkwitz benched his star player for the Lockheed Martin Armed Forces Bowl on Wednesday.

Drinkwitz was not punishing Tyler Badie, who this season rushed for 1,604 yards, scored 18 touchdowns and was named to the All-SEC team. Just the opposite: He was looking out for his best interests

Badie stands to reap a handsome windfall by entering the NFL draft. An injury, however, could derail that prospect. Drinkwitz refuses to take that risk. He thinks protecting his player is more important than winning a bowl game. "If you truly value your team like they're your own sons, he told reporters, "sometimes you look at things a little bit differently."

Badie is not the only standout player who will be watching his team's bowl game rather than participating. Texas A&M had to withdraw from the Gator Bowl after several starters opted out and others contracted COVID-19. Two Penn State linebackers are skipping their bowl, as are two SMU wide receivers. At least three Oklahoma starters will not be starting or finishing the Alamo Bowl.

Not all coaches approve of this trend. Mississippi State's Mike Leach fumed, "It's one of the biggest absurdities that I've seen, and it's selfish, too." You may remember Leach as the Texas Tech head coach fired after being accused of abuse by a player who selfishly made himself unavailable season games are on TV. by sustaining a concussion.

It hasn't been long that players have had the nerve to look out for themselves rather than take uncompensated risks in meaningless games. In 2016, LSU running back Leonard Fournette and Stanford running back Christian McCaffrey provoked criticism by sitting out their bowl games. Both went early in the first round of the 2017 NFL draft, and the combined value of their contracts was $73 million. They also have gone on to success, and more riches, as pros.

Their story is different from that of Jaylon Smith, whose example they doubtless had in mind. A second-team All-American linebacker at Notre Dame, he was in line for the same sort of windfall — until he tore up his knee in the 2016 Fiesta Bowl. He fell to the second round of that year's draft, costing him upward of $16 million.

If coaches want their best players to take the field for bowl games, they could persuade their university presidents to buy insurance policies to make up any financial losses resulting from injuries. Or they could use their own immense fortunes to do the same. But for some reason, they

It's not as though the missed bowls matter. At one time, being invited to play in a bowl game was something special. Today, it's not really an honor; it's more of a disgrace not to make one. Nowadays, the chance to play on TV is not much of a lure, because the vast majority of regular

If a college football player from 1970 came out of a 51-year coma, he would be astonished by the proliferation of post-season contests. Back then, there were 11 bowls. This year, 44 were scheduled. Why would a sensible young man jeopardize his livelihood for the sponsors of the Union Home Mortgage Gasparilla Bowl?

It's also not as though the games won't be played — at least in a nonpandemic year. Most athletes are willing to play in bowls because 1) playing football is what they enrolled to do, 2) they feel an obligation to their coaches and teammates, or 3) it will give them a chance to impress their own coaches (for those who will be back next season) or NFL scouts (for those who are entering the draft).

Every player who pulls out of a bowl game creates an opportunity for another one to take the field instead of riding the bench. For reserves who get little if any playing time, the no-shows are an opportunity they otherwise wouldn't get.

Anyone who has a shot at getting an NFL contract has already helped his university reap huge sums of money and has good reason, at the close of his college career, to put his own interests first. True, there's no "I" in "team." But there are two in "millions."

The destruction of our personal liberties

By Judge Andrew Napolitano

Two recent and unconnected revelations demonstrate that the deep state remains engaged, deceptive and dangerous.

Here is the backstory.

The deep state consists of those parts of the government that do not change in response to elections and are not transparent or answerable to communities, the military and diplomatic communities, and central bankers. Each has its private sector collaborators. Some would include the judiciary. As a former member of the judiciary from one of the four states that grant life tenure to judges, I do not consider judges to be in the same category as CIA, FBI and other thugs — armed, or flush with cash — who have their own secret agendas.

With the sole exception of the unconstitutional Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Court, judges operate in public courtrooms, and whatever they do is reduced to writing and subject to appeal or public criticism. The deep state is well below the visible parts of government and rarely subject to public scrutiny. Its budgets are secret. And its power is rarely subject to appeal of any sort. Its two most notorious members — and the two that tormented former President Donald J. Trump — are intelligence and law enforcement. And the two best known in those communities are the CIA and the FBI.

Readers of this column know that the CIA tortures people in foreign lands, believing that somehow torture committed outside the United States cannot subject its officers to prosecution. We know this because of recent revelations in hearings in the military courtrooms at the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

There have been no full jury trials there since the inception 20 years ago of this George W. Bush-inspired modern-day Devil's Island, but there have been hearings with juries to determine the punishment of those who have pleaded guilty to federal crimes.

In one of those hearings, we learned of four years of torture of a foreign national at the hands of the CIA, only to have its officers reveal their opinion that the torture was useless as the victim was telling the truth before, during and after they repeatedly invaded his body cavities and nearly froze him to death in a walk-in refrigerator/freezer.

These revelations were not challenged by the military and civilian

There are many CIA actions that the agency wishes we did not know This generally includes the intelligence and law enforcement about, such as the wars it has fought, its physical presence in every statehouse in the U.S., and its domestic spying on Americans without search warrants. When Gen. David Petraeus was the director of the CIA, he admitted in a talk he thought was secret, but which was secretly recorded, that the CIA has access to all microchips in your home.

> Thus, if you own a microwave oven, the CIA is quite literally in your kitchen. If you use a cellphone or drive a car, the CIA quite literally goes

> No statute authorizes CIA torture or domestic spying. In fact, the Constitution and treaties to which the U.S. is a signatory and federal statutes prohibit both types of behavior. Yet, CIA agents engage in criminal behavior because they can — and because they know that they can get away with it.

> at CNN their determination to overhaul their network of spies, cease paramilitary actions — which presumably include torture — and return to the "quiet statecraft" of spying on "adversaries" like China and Russia. Then the CIA learned that it has failed to recruit enough Mandarin- and Russian-speaking agents to do so. Criminal and inept.

> We also learned shortly before the Christmas holiday from testimony at Guantanamo Bay that nine FBI agents were formally transferred to the CIA so that they'd be free to engage in torture themselves without damaging the reputation of the FBI. CIA agents apparently don't care about their employer's reputation the way their bosses do.

During the Christmas holiday, former FBI agents revealed that they and others had secretly gone undercover and pretended to be part of the mobs that engaged in the riots in 2020 in Portland, Oregon. There, 200 folks were arrested in a six-month period and charged with various crimes, which ranged from unlawful assembly to obstruction of justice to using violence to destroy government property.

When FBI agents go undercover, their task is to blend in with the folks they are secretly monitoring. That often means committing the same crimes as these folks. Thus, 100 of the 200 cases were dropped because the FBI agents who were sent to join the mob and who pretended to be part of it failed adequately to chronicle what they saw.

Or so their now-retired former colleagues say. We will, of course, never know the true reasons why these cases were dropped. Nor will we know which of these crimes where actually provoked or committed by

We know from reports by the inspector general of the Department of Justice for 2020, and from courtroom files in the FBI-created conspiracy to kidnap the governor of Michigan, that the FBI never prosecutes its own when they are undercover and commit crimes and, in fact, regularly permits its undercover sources to commit crimes with impunity.

What's going on here?

What's going on is the destruction of personal liberty in America by Over the Christmas holiday, CIA officials leaked to friendly reporters the very folks we have hired to protect it. CIA and FBI agents have all taken the same oath as I did when I became a judge — to abide by the Constitution. The folks who torture, spy without warrant, and create and participate in criminal behavior have become a law unto themselves as they decide what laws to break, what laws to uphold and whom to permit to get away with lawless behavior.

This will bring us to ruination. Why do we tolerate it?

As presidential nominee, Kamala Harris is not the one

By Froma Harrop

The year 2022 should be too early to get into heated speculation about the Democrats' 2024 candidate for president. But since it's already begun, now would be a good time to resist arguments for making Vice President Kamala Harris the nominee.

First off, the current president, Joe Biden, has not ruled out seeking reelection. Though up in years, Biden is overseeing a functional presidency. The economy is boffo. And he got passed a desperately needed infrastructure plan that eluded his predecessor, forceful tweets notwithstanding.

Such a program, Donald Trump tweeted in March 2020, "should be VERY BIG & BOLD, Two Trillion Dollars, and be focused solely on jobs and rebuilding the once great infrastructure of our Country!"

A second term for Biden is not to be dismissed, especially if Republicans decide to choose another whack job more intent on dismantling the democracy than rebuilding roads, bridges and water systems. Or the same whack job, for that matter.

But we digress. As Biden's vice president, Harris has not done anything very objectionable, and she's brilliant in some ways. But her political skills are plainly lacking. That's why her Democratic cheering squad needs to be countered.

Harris's penchant for identity politics is both dated and political poison. Recall her performance in the first Democratic presidential debate, back in 2020, when she all but called Biden a racist for allegedly being against busing children to desegregate schools. Declaring herself "the only black person on this stage" was her claim to authority on such

As it turned out, the federally mandated busing in the '70s was roundly disliked by whites and Blacks alike. She also misrepresented Biden's position. He was opposed to forced busing, not the voluntary kind. Harris later said that this was, actually, her position as well.

Harris' obvious mission was to unfairly smear a primary opponent, and the hell with Democratic solidarity. Although she self-dramatized as a member of a disadvantaged racial minority, her mother was, in fact, a medical researcher from India, and her Jamaican father was a professor of economics at Stanford University. (That Biden made her his running mate surprises me to this day.)

Even now Harris is doing the identity thing, complaining that the news coverage of her would be different if she were white and male like the other vice presidents. You don't hear that victim talk from Nikki Haley, the former governor of South Carolina born to Indian immigrants and possible member of the Republican ticket in 2024. The busing issue was long ago, but Republicans would undoubtedly move it front and center should Harris be the nominee.

As vice president, Harris had been tasked with addressing border issues. But when Rep. Henry Cuellar, a Texas Democrat representing part of the Rio Grande Valley, had staff call Harris' office to discuss her upcoming visit, no one bothered to call him back. He said that from now on, he'd go directly to the president's office to discuss problems at the border rather than the vice president's.

Harris is very much a product of the coastal liberal establishment in a party whose House leader is from San Francisco and Senate leader is from New York City. This year, Washington Post columnist Jonathan Capehart has written no fewer than three adulatory columns about Harris. One imagines she returns his calls Democrats badly need voices from the rest of the country in positions of prominence. That and Harris' lack of nuance in dealing with genuinely complicated issues should prompt Democrats to look elsewhere for their next presidential candidate. All this assumes, of course, that Biden doesn't run again. He very well might.

How to avoid New Year's resolution disappointment

As we get set to ring in the New Year, millions of Americans will be taking part of an annual tradition of making New Year's

For many, they will be setting unrealistic goals that are hard to attain and they may end up disappointed.

According to DiscoverHappyHabits.com, a 2016 study showed out of the 41% of Americans who make New Year's resolutions, by the end of the year, only 9% feel they are successful in keeping them.

There are a few things you can do to successfully achieve your News Year's resolutions, however, notes Dr. Britany Alexander, a psychiatrist with Kaiser Permanente Southern California. "The desire to be our best self is the first step to real, positive change,"

Here are a few tips Dr. Alexander offers to help you make your New Year's resolution a success:

Choose something YOU want to change. For example, if your spouse would like nothing more than for you to take up a hobby or a sport they really like, but you have little interest in it, you will be less likely to follow through on your commitment. Make sure it's your own personal goal.

Keep it simple. It can be tempting to set several goals at once. After some holiday overindulgence, you might feel like giving up all alcohol, going on a diet, exercising five times per week and drinking lots of water. Those are all excellent habits. But people tend to become discouraged and quit if they miss their mark. Instead, making one or two small achievable goals can set you up for success and is ultimately more rewarding.

Plan ahead and be consistent. Instead of saying, "I will exercise every day," try modifying your goal to be more specific. For example, you could say, "I will exercise for 30 minutes on Monday, Wednesday, and Fridays." And to take it a step further, make sure you have the necessary equipment available, and the time blocked off in advance, hence increasing the likelihood of reaching your goal.

It's OK to re-evaluate the goals you set. If no matter what you are becoming stuck in a particular area, go back and reassess. Was the goal too aggressive or not truly something you wanted to do? For example, if you set out to train for a marathon but are finding the schedule too overwhelming, perhaps consider preparing for a 5K first. Any step forward counts.

Be kind to yourself. If you don't quite make it today, show up again tomorrow. You are worth a second, third and fourth chance. Remember that the journey of a thousand miles begins with one

"The key to success in keeping your New Year's resolution is to be realistic and take small steps," Dr. Alexander says. "Taking too big of a leap could result in discouragement, and that could ultimately lead you away from your goals.'

Weather, pandemic not enough to derail Downey Rose Float

DOWNEY – It is officially crunch time for the Downey Rose Float Association, as they race to finish their entry for Saturday's annual Pasadena Tournament of Roses Parade.

The theme of this year event is "Dream. Believe. Achieve." Downey's entry is called "Reading: It's an Adventure," and will include three giant popup books, featuring a submarine voyage, a wild jungle, and a rocket blasting off into space.

The concept came from a drawing authored by Alexis Givens, who at 12-yearsold, is the youngest in Downey Rose Float history to have her submission selected.

"I had no idea I was going to submit an entry at first; I didn't even know we were going to the meeting before that night," said

"I always think of a jungle adventure when I think of adventure," said Givens. "Me and [Construction Chair] Kelley Roberts came up with a better and new design to go from the depths of the sea to the limits of space, because if you dream it and believe it, you can achieve anything.

"It will be simple animation that you would see in a typical pop-up President Jeremy Clifton book," said Roberts. "If you pull something on a popup book, it moves, or you turn it or you slide it, a little something moves; that Clifton and Roberts agreed little quirkiness. That's what we tried to do."

"Decoration week" - which officially began Dec. 26 also got off to a bit of a rocky start.

As of Monday, Downey Rose Float had not seen the number of volunteers that they usually do, which was likely due to the winter storm that was rolling through, and the rapidly rising number of Covid-19

Downey Rose Float has safety protocols week, including screening volunteers and requiring proof of vaccination or negative Covid-19 test.

Still, despite its hectic and somewhat nail-biting nature, the final days before the parade also brought a sense of normalcy for many of the organization's volunteers.

"People have been stuck Givens served as Little at home, haven't been able to get out and see each other," said Clifton. "A lot of these people we see every year, year after year after year. We watch their kids grow up. We watch them get older, we watch After a traffic accident them get married."

> "Believe it or not, a year makes a big difference.'
