MASK MANDATE NEARS END

■ Mask requirements are expected to be lifted soon for most indoor settings.

By City News Service

NORWALK - The number of COVID-19-positive people hospitalized in Los Angeles County dropped again helping Wednesday, move the county toward this week's anticipated lifting of its indoor mask-wearing mandate.

According to state figures, there were 907 COVID-positive patients in county hospitals as of Wednesday, down from 927 on Tuesday. Of those patients, 157 were being treated in intensive care, down from 174 the previous

The downward trend in hospital numbers is contributing to what is expected to be a major shift in COVID-19 response policy in the county. On Thursday, the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention is expected to release its weekly update of virus activity in communities across the country. Last week, that data -- which is based largely on hospital admissions and bed availability -- placed Los Angeles County in the "high" category of virus activity, meaning a continued recommendation for mask wearing.

But county Public Health Director Barbara Ferrer said earlier this week that when the CDC issues its updated numbers Thursday, the county is expected to fall into the agency's mediumor low-risk category, removing the federal recommendation for masks in most indoor settings.

If that occurs, Ferrer said the county will issue a new Health Officer Order on Thursday -taking effect Friday -- that removes the county's longstanding mandate for people to

Mask-wearing, however, will continue to be "strongly recommended," particularly particularly in crowded settings or while interacting with people at higher risk of severe illness from the

"Despite encouraging news, people unvaccinated, immunocompromised or living in low-resourced communities continue to be at higher risk and are more likely to become seriously ill and die from COVID-19," Ferrer said in a statement Wednesday. "Along with the significant protection provided by vaccines and boosters, masks add an important barrier to transmission that protects those most vulnerable from the worst outcomes.

"Therefore, Public Health, in alignment with the state, strongly recommends that individuals keep their masks on in public indoor settings, regardless of vaccination status, until there is less risk for those at elevated risk."

Masking will continue to be By Vincent Medina required in higher-risk settings, including health care facilities, transit centers, airports, aboard public transit, in correctional facilities and at homeless shelters and long-term care facilities.

Indoor masks also continue to be required on K-12 school although campuses, the county and state will lift that requirement on March 12.

County health officials also noted that people attending indoor mega- events of 1,000 or more people -- such as sporting events -- will still be required to show proof of COVID vaccination or a recent negative test to be admitted. Vaccine verification or a negative test will also still be required at health-care facilities and congregate-care facilities.

While the mask mandate will likely be lifted, Ferrer warned Tuesday that the virus remains a threat. She said the county will be monitoring seven "alert signals" that could portend increased virus activity.

College opens pantry for struggling students

NORWALK - Cerritos College held a ribbon cutting for it's new "Falcon's Nest," a Trader-Joes style pantry that offers food, clothing, hygiene products, and emergency aid and resources to in-need students.

At the Falcon's Nest, students will have access to fresh and sustainable foods, lightly-used clothing, and other provisions for day-to-day life.

James Cordey Birkey, President of the Cerritos College Board of Trustees, said that the Falcon's Nest "removes barriers for students."

"In 2019, we established a goal to extend our campus efforts to address student housing and security and hunger, among other critical areas," said Birkey. "As a local poet once said, 'If you can't eat, you can't think, if you can't think, you can't learn, and if you can't learn, you can't earn."

"Today, we officially open this facility with an enormous sense of pride and purpose. With the incredible resources offered through the Falcon's nest, we can help address the lack of basic necessities among college students, which remains a persistent local state and national issue."

Cerritos College President Jose Fierro said that the college hoped to ensure that students "do not have to wonder where that next meal is coming from."

"Just think about it: How could you learn math, algebra, calculus, science, English on an empty stomach? How could I focus on my homework when I wear masks indoors regardless don't know where my next meal of vaccination status. That move comes from," said Fierro. # LAPD officers now required to explain 'pretextual' stops

■ New policy requires police officers to explain why minor traffic violations escalate into criminal investigations.

By City News Service

LOS ANGELES – The Los Angeles Police Commission updated its policy on so-called "pretextual stops" Tuesday to discipline officers -- beginning with additional training -- if they don't articulate in the moment why a traffic or other minor violation escalates into a criminal investigation.

The Los Angeles Police Department defines a pretextual stop as one in which officers conducting a minor traffic or code violation escalate it into an investigation of a more serious crime unrelated to the initial

According to the Office of the Inspector General, there were "pretty substantial racial disparities" in stops, many of which were pretextual stops, conducted by the department in 2019, and "a fairly small number of them yielded evidence of serious crimes or ended up resulting in any kind of arrests."

Those findings led the commission to request that the department update its policy, according to Commission President William Briggs.

"Those pretextual stops do off the streets, those pretextual stops do not result in curtailing murders and curtailing shootings ... there is no data that anyone can point to that establishes that a "facade of reform." pretextual stops curtail violent crime in our city," said Briggs, adding that data collected for the Racial and Identity Profiling Act 'shows just the opposite."

Under the updated policy, officers making a pretextual stop will have to articulate on their body-worn video cameras the profiling, this is about targeting of fairness and identifying those reason for the change.

"An officer's experience and expertise may be used in articulating the additional information the officers used to initiate the stop," the policy update states.

The policy also states that pretextual stops can only happen if officers "are acting upon articulable information" and not a "mere hunch or on generalized characteristics," including race.

Failure to articulate the information that prompted the officer to make a pretext stop will result in "progressive discipline beginning with counseling and retraining." The policy adds that discipline will escalate as more violations of the policy are made.

City Councilman Marqueece Harris-Dawson joined the police commission meeting and called the policy update a "huge step in the right direction." He noted that public trust in the police is "so easily degraded when a firearms, engaged in street person is stopped and they can't violence. I firmly believe that or that the reason they were given just doesn't add up for them."

He added, "I don't know of an African American male driver, (and) I know very few Latino male drivers, who don't have half-a-dozen stories about" being stopped by police for reasons that didn't make sense.

"It's clear to them, or at least leaves the impression, that: 'I am a person, I'm an individual in this space and for some reason, this officer has decided that I'm suspicious,"' Harris-Dawson not result in guns being taken Tuesday's meeting to oppose the motion for allowing pretextual stops to continue at all. Hamid Khan of the Stop LAPD Spying Coalition called the policy update

> "They still want to maintain their capacity to stop people because if this was truly, they wanted to change this, they would completely ban the pretextual stop," Khan told City News Service on Tuesday. ... That pretext is about racial particular communities and this engaged in serious criminal is about constant harassment conduct," the preamble adds.

Mona Sutton, who identified herself as the representative for the Community Police Advisory Board for the South Bureau and Harbor Area, said she opposed the policy update for limiting officers' ability to make pretextual stops, arguing against others' beliefs that it undermines public trust in the police.

Another caller also opposed changes to the policy, saying pretextual stops lead to officers finding firearms and drugs.

Police Chief Michel Moore responded to those concerns Tuesday.

"I've thoroughly heard members of this organization who believe that this policy will stop us from identifying those responsible for violent crime, stop us from identifying those that are carrying weapons, LAPD Police Chief Michel Moore

In a preamble to the policy that will be added to the department's manual, the LAPD

"While the exercise of an officer's discretion in initiating a `stop' or conducting a detention is authored under the law, it should reflect the necessary balance of the role of law enforcement in the prevention of crime and receiving and thereafter maintaining the community's trust that the officer's actions are fair and without bias."

The statement adds that Several people called in to stops can promote public safety and protect the public, but can subject motorists and pedestrians to "inconvenience, confusion and anxiety," as well as harm the relationship between police and the community, with many considering such stops racially biased or unfair.

> "To maintain public trust, the Department's use of pretext stops as a crime reduction strategy must be measured in furtherance of achieving the necessary balance between the perception

Commissioner comments that pretextual stops have not reduced violent crime drew opposition from the Los Angeles Police Protective League, the union representing Los Angeles police officers.

"Police Commissioner Briggs should get off his soapbox, do his homework and tell the truth about pre-text stops and the important role they play in taking guns off our streets," the league's Board of Directors said in a statement issued after the meeting.

"Last year in just the Newton Division, officers recovered 817 firearms during 726 incidents. Of the 726 incidents, 699 resulted in an arrest being made, of which 507 suspects were arrested by traffic stops and 115 by pedestrian stops. That's a significant amount of illegal guns taken out of our neighborhoods," the statement continued.

Reopening Excelsior High School would be a step backwards

By Bryan Lopez

Holding our elected officials accountable is neither an easy task nor a task for the faint of heart. As individuals we must compete with wellconnected politicians, special interests, and the ever-present political spin. We hope our representatives have the best interest of the community at heart when making decisions that affect our lives. Sometimes, all we have are media outlets that may bring some of these issues to light.

As a Norwalk resident and former commissioner, I try to stay connected with important decisions made at city hall and at our local school district. This past week, I noted that the Norwalk-La Mirada Unified School District is considering re-opening Excelsior High School, a campus closed since 1981, for the purpose of moving Southeast Military Academy students there. Given the serious school issues being dealt within the district regarding declining enrollment, school closures, and the safety of the students, is this truly in the best interest of our children?

A mere 15-months ago an 11-member District Advisory Committee of administrators, made up of non-certified employees, parents, and teachers recommended closing Dulles and Foster Road elementary schools in La Mirada; Chavez, Edmondson, and Johnston elementary schools in Norwalk; and Los Coyotes Middle School in La Mirada and Waite Middle School in Norwalk. Yup, that is a total of seven schools! Why?

Well, student enrollment in the district has been consistently declining since 2004. The numbers are down from 22,019 in 2004 to 16,881 in 2019 and are estimated to be 12,915 in 2030. These recommendations were estimated to save the district nearly $5.4 million.

In late 2020, Estuardo Santillan, assistant superintendent of business services, stated that if schools are not closed, "the budget would be negative in almost five years...The impact will be unequal access to many supports and services offered throughout the district. This includes programs and staffing associated with supporting these programs." Two schools were eventually closed — Chavez Elementary and El Camino

For anyone keeping count —that makes a total of four schools closed in the last ten years.

What will be the costs of upgrading the old buildings at Excelsior? The campus was built in 1923 and would need upgrading to ensure it is up to code. Will Measure G funds be used for that effort? La Mirada high school recently upgraded its gymnasium and locker rooms to the tune of twentyfive million of Measure G funds. Are these the high costs we should expect by moving the two hundred students from Southeast Academy to Excelsior? It is obvious that from a financial standpoint, seeking these efforts will bring additional costs that may have far-reaching affects to our children. Why is the school board not thinking this through?

When Measure G was passed in 2014, it was touted as being needed for "repairing drainage systems, leaking roofs and decaying walls; updating computer, science and math lab technology; upgrading fire safety systems including safety doors, fire proofing, smoke alarms, and detectors; upgrading school security and fencing; and updating technology for twenty-first century learning." Are the other schools in the district going to get the shaft in order to upgrade Excelsior?

My hope is that this decision is not motivated by those seeking political expediency on the backs of the education of our children. That would be shameful. I can only hope that board member Morrison will remember what she said at the end of 2020 regarding the depleting student population and its effects on our precious school system.

These are her words: "We do have a fiscal responsibility to our school district...It would be a terrible thing to be taken over by the state.

Republicans are so eager to see Biden fail that they'd let Putin succeed

By Dana Milbank

After her fellow Republicans booted her from party leadership last year, Rep. Liz Cheney posed a question: "Do we hate our political adversaries more than we love our country?"

Now, with Vladimir Putin's invasion of Ukraine, Republicans are answering that question — in the affirmative.

The dictator is betting that division within the United States will sap American resolve and thereby sow disunity between the United States and European democracies — allowing him to crush Ukraine's democracy and potentially others. And Republicans are giving him what he wants. They are so determined to see President Biden fail that they would let President Putin succeed.

Tuesday night's State of the Union address, coming six days after Russia started the biggest war in Europe since 1944, offered a timely opportunity to showcase national unity for Putin, and the world. During a similar address to Congress after the 9/11 attacks, President George W. Bush enveloped Democratic congressional leaders in bear hugs. But this time, a number of Republicans boycotted Biden's address, ostensibly because they objected to getting tested for the coronavirus.

Those in the chamber rose to applaud the Ukrainian ambassador, and many wore Ukraine's yellow and blue. But as Biden extolled national unity — "He thought he could divide us at home, in this chamber, in this nation. ... But Putin was wrong." — Republican lawmakers sniped at him

"Joe Biden sought to appease Vladimir Putin from the very beginning," wrote Sen. Ted Cruz (R-Tex.). "Biden is empowering our enemies."

"The United States is back to leading from behind under President Biden," tweeted Sen. Marsha Blackburn (R-Tenn.). "This is the second time Putin has invaded a foreign country while Joe Biden has been in the the Republican assaults on Biden have been. Though Americans

White House."

How deep was the contempt? As Biden mentioned the cancers that kill many U.S. veterans, including his own son Beau, Rep. Lauren Boebert (R-Colo.) heckled the president.

GOP leaders had set the blame-Biden tone earlier in the day. Rep. Michael McCaul (Tex.), the top Republican on the House Foreign Affairs Committee, likened Biden's actions toward Russia to Neville Chamberlain's appeasement of Hitler, saying, "We have a weak president, and he's creating a very dangerous world.

Also Tuesday, Rep. Elise Stefanik (N.Y.), the No. 3 House GOP leader, said Biden "failed to engage in meaningful deterrence against Russian aggression," and asserted that "the war on Ukraine represents one of the greatest foreign policy failures in modern history.

House GOP leader Kevin McCarthy (Calif.) and Rep. Steve Scalise (La.), the House GOP whip, amplified the attacks on Biden over Ukraine. And Sen. John Barrasso (Wyo.), head of the Senate Republican Conference, said Biden's "policies from Day One have enabled, emboldened Vladimir Putin to do what he has done," adding that it's "as if Vladimir Putin were Joe Biden's secretary of energy."

Biden "weak" on Ukraine.

The relentless assault no doubt undermines Biden — but it also weakens America. Biden's response — the U.S. response — can be only as strong as Republicans allow. By sabotaging the commander in chief, Republican leaders have made it more difficult to rally the nation to accept wartime sacrifices (accepting higher energy prices or, potentially, lost American lives).

A poll released Monday by Yahoo News-YouGov shows how corrosive overwhelmingly call the Ukraine invasion unjustified, Trump voters actually had a more favorable opinion of Putin than of Biden. Ninetyfive percent of Trump voters expressed an unfavorable view of Biden (including 87 percent holding a very unfavorable view), compared with 78 percent of Trump voters expressing an unfavorable view of Putin (60 percent very unfavorable). Only 3 percent of Trump voters said Biden is doing a better job leading his country than Putin, while 47 percent said the dictator, who has brought isolation and economic crisis to Russia, is doing a better job than Biden.

This shouldn't be surprising. Trump, while opposing the Ukraine invasion, has called "peacekeeper" Putin's actions "very savvy," 'genius" and "smart," while "our leaders are dumb.'

That's a bit rich, after Trump threatened to blow up NATO, unsuccessfully tried to persuade other world leaders to readmit Russia to the Group of Seven and infamously tried to condition military aid to Ukraine on the country's willingness to provide Trump with political dirt on Democrats. Republican lawmakers defended Trump by parroting Russian propaganda falsely blaming Ukraine for 2016 U.S. election sabotage, which Russia actually did.

But this isn't the time to point fingers at political opponents. It's time Some Republican candidates have even been fundraising off calling to confront the real enemy. Do Republican leaders know the difference?

> In the official GOP response to the State of the Union, Iowa Gov. Kim Reynolds picked up the blame-Biden theme, accusing him of "focusing on political correctness rather than military readiness" before the Ukraine invasion. "Weakness on the world stage has a cost," she charged.

It does. And Republicans, by undermining Biden in a time of war, risk making America pay.

Democrats criticize gerrymandering except when it benefits them

By Larry Elder

The term "gerrymander" derives from Elbridge Gerry, a Founding Father and vice president who, as governor of Massachusetts, approved an oddly drawn state senate district to benefit his Democratic-Republican Party over the Federalist Party.

Both parties do it. Both parties complain when the other party does

Consider recent GOP "gerrymandering" efforts. Former President American citizens from exercising their right to vote. And drawing congressional maps that drown out the voice of ordinary people." Obama added: "Rather than argue, based on ideas, they are trying to tilt the playing field. And they aren't even waiting for election day to do it. Their plan is to control state legislatures and congressional delegations before a single vote is cast. That is not how democracy is supposed to work.'

Former Obama attorney general and self-described Obama "wingman" Eric Holder also denounced the Republican maneuvers. Holder called for "fair line drawing" while blasting Republicans who "gamed" the system.

Obama and Holder assume or hope we suffer from memory loss. Holder's former boss not only benefited from gerrymandering, but one could argue that without it, there would have been no President Obama.

In 1999, Illinois state Sen. Barack Obama lost badly in the primary election for Chicago's South Side seat in the U.S. House to fellow Democrat and incumbent Rep. Bobby Rush. According to ProPublica, place. 'Two years later, with the Democrats in control of Illinois redistricting, Obama was apparently able to reshape his state senate district to his own specifications, which included drawing in wealthy supporters from Chicago's Gold Coast." Chicago Democrat John Corrigan, who worked on the redistricting, called it "a radical change." Obama's new district was, according to The New Yorker's Ryan Lizza, "wealthier, whiter, more Jewish, less blue-collar and better educated."

Lizza wrote: "Corrigan remembers two things about the district that Barack Obama accused Republicans of "passing laws designed to prevent he and Obama drew. First, it retained Obama's Hyde Park base — he had managed to beat Rush in Hyde Park — then swooped upward along the lakefront and toward downtown. By the end of the final redistricting process, his new district bore little resemblance to his old one. Rather than jutting far to the west, like a long thin dagger, into a swath of poor black neighborhoods of bungalow homes, Obama's map now shot north, encompassing about half of the Loop, whose southern portion was beginning to be transformed by developers like Tony Rezko, and stretched far up Michigan Avenue and into the Gold Coast, covering much of the city's economic heart, its main retail thoroughfares, and its finest museums, parks, skyscrapers, and lakefront apartment buildings."

> financial resources, Lizza said Obama's gerrymandering "may have been the most important event in Obama's early political life."

Gerrymandering was not the only hard-boiled tactic employed by the governor of California. young, ambitious politician. Obama engaged in what Democrats today would call "voter suppression" to win his state senate seat in the first

To qualify to run, Illinois state Senate candidates must obtain a specific number of valid signatures on a petition. Obama challenged the legitimacy of the signatures on the petitions of his three rivals, including the incumbent, resulting in their disqualification. Will Burns, then a young volunteer for Obama, said, "(Petition-challenging is) one of the first things you do whenever you're in the middle of a primary race, especially in primaries in Chicago, because if you don't have signatures to get on the ballot, you save yourself a lot of time and effort from having to raise money and have a full-blown campaign effort against an

This is exactly what team Obama did. According to a CNN article about Obama's first race: "If names were printed instead of signed in cursive writing, they were declared invalid. If signatures were good but the person gathering the signatures wasn't properly registered, those petitions also were thrown out." Obama ran unopposed on the Democratic ticket.

One of the candidates targeted and eliminated, Gha-is Askia, said, "It wasn't honorable. I wouldn't have done it.'

But today, about gerrymandering and alleged Republican "voter" suppression," Obama now says, "That is not how democracy is supposed to work." But that is certainly how democracy worked in Chicago.

What happens to a property when someone dies?

By Jeff Prang L.A. County Assessor

This month I'm going to share information about a delicate subject, but also a very important one - dealing with property taxes and what should be done upon the death of a property owner.

Needless to say, the death of a loved one is a traumatic event, to say nothing of putting their affairs in order - dealing with inheritance, insurance, finances, and property. The following information generally covers what needs to be done if they owned property in Los Angeles

Anytime a property owner dies, the County Assessor must be notified. This is done by filing the Change in Ownership - Death of Real Property Owner Form. The form must be filed in addition to any notification made to law enforcement, the Coroner, or even the Registrar-Recorder/ County Clerk.

The Change in Ownership – Death of Real Property Owner Form must be filed with the Assessor within 150 days of the date of death. If the estate is in probate, the Assessor must be notified at the same time that the "inventory and appraisal" is filed. Failure to notify the Assessor may result in penalties and can complicate other parts of the transfer process.

The executor (whether a family member or legal representative) should file the Change in Ownership Statement -- Death of Real Property Owner Form and mail it to the Los Angeles County Assessor, Ownership Services Section, 500 W. Temple St., Room 205, Los Angeles, CA 90012, along with a copy of the death certificate. Also, you will find the required forms and a checklist that will take you through each step at my website: assessor.lacounty.gov/ Real-Estate-Toolkit/death-ofa-property-owner. I encourage you to avail yourself of this useful information.

Furthermore, if the property is passes from a parent to their child(ren), there may be property tax savings available, called the Parent-Child Exclusion. However, that process has changed since the voterapproved Proposition 19 went into effect last year. Generally speaking, the parent-child exclusion allows a child to inherit property from their parent(s) without the property being reassessed: meaning they keep the parent's tax base.

Prop. 19 now mandates, however, that any property not being used as the primary residence will not be eligible to transfer the existing lower tax rate. The child receiving the home has one year from the date of transfer to acquire the Homeowners' Exemption, if the home does not have it already. If the home does not have the Homeowners' Exemption, the children will not receive the tax benefit. The Parent-Child Exclusion is not automatic and must be applied for to receive the

A common point of confusion is when the property is in a trust. While trusts can have many benefits, they don't protect from reassessment. Whether or not the property is in a trust, the Parent-Child Exclusion must be filed to receive the savings. Similarly, property can be transferred from a grandparent to a grandchild, if the parent is deceased. The Grandparent to Grandchild Exclusion must also be filed. Applications for both Parent-Child Exclusions and Grandparent to Grandchild Exclusions must be made within three years following the date of death, (or other transfer) but prior to the date of sale or transfer to a third party.

Whenever you are considering filing documents that affect the ownership of your property, I encourage you to seek legal advice and assistance before filing those documents. The information provided here should not be construed as legal

As I stated at the outset of this column, this is a delicate subject matter that needs to be addressed. I hope you find the information provided here useful. Again, I encourage you to visit our website, assessor. lacounty.gov.

La Mirada season back on track with win over King/Drew

■ La Mirada wins CIF State first-round game over King/ Drew, 65-60.

By John M. Sherrard Contributor

LA MIRADA - It was disappointment and elation all in the stretch of four days for the La Mirada High School Boys Basketball team.

The Matadores (19-14), who were on a major roll near the end of the season with 11 consecutive wins, fell to San Juan Hills, 59-49, in the CIF-Southern Section Division 2A Championship game on Friday February 25.

Four days later, they saw themselves in a CIF State firstround game at King/Drew of Los Angeles, Tuesday March 1.

The young No. 10 Seed La Mirada team found a way to battle back from the title-game loss and defeat No. 7 Seed King/ Drew, 65-60, and advance to a second-round game at No. 2 Seed Los Altos on Thursday, March 3. (Results not available at press

The team that was 7-13 on January 18, started the 11-0 run in the Suburban League, sweeping seven games, including two wins over rival Mayfair. The next four were in the 2A playoffs over Beckman, No.2-ranked Edison, No. 3 Tesoro and No. 6 Calabasas.

"The second time we beat Mayfair, 40-38 and that was the springboard getting us in the playoffs," La Mirada first-year coach Randy Oronoz said. "Our record was 7-13 and those losses weren't bad," Oronoz said. "Seven games in our 20-game stretch, we only had seven guys.

"The thing I've been telling everyone is we played one of the toughest (schedules) I've ever been around. We knew we weren't our record.

Once league began, it was the first time the whole team was together."

On that team there are four freshmen that play big minutes.

"The 11 guys that we have can help us anytime," said Oronoz.

remodeled new gym before a packed house, the Matadores battled toe-to-toe and had a first-quarter lead, 14-6, and trailed at the half by a point, 27-

Senior Isiah Kalaj led with five points in the first quarter along with five points from junior Athan Sierra.

Suburban league MVP Julien Gomez had five points in the second quarter for the Matadores.

The third quarter hurt la Mirada, as they only scored five points and San Juan Hills had 16 for the 43-31 lead. Two 12-0 San Juan runs set La Mirada back on its heels in the game.

John McFadden led the Stallions with a game-high 25 points, while Sierra and Gomez had 13 and 11 points, respectively for La Mirada.

With the loss, the Matadores knew there was a tomorrow and an invite to the state tournament.

"Our practice at noon after the title game was a testament to the ability to rebound and get ready for state playoffs," Oronoz

After the title game, Gomez spoke of his fellow freshmen and their run to the finals.

"Our team, the La Mirada Matadores, we play hard and are a pretty good team and made it real far in CIF, but unfortunately we couldn't pull it out," Gomez said. "This guy right here, Sean Cervantes, he's our point guard and without him we wouldn't be here. We have Jarrett Cole, Chris Perez and Morgan Smith. Us four are freshmen and we are just a gritty team that plays defense."

Oronoz spoke of Cole and Cervantes – "Cole is a freshman and has been phenomenal as well," Oronoz said. "He's a guard and defender. We're deep and can replace anyone on the bench.

"If we don't have Sean, we don't go far. He's been the best point guard on the court for the last 11 games. Without Sean, In the title game against we're a below-.500 team. He's San Juan Hills in La Mirada's fast and the smartest guy on the court.'

> Behind that defense is assistant coach, David Martinez. "My assistant coach David Martinez gets the guys going on defense and he's a guru on films," Oronoz added.

> Cervantes added to Gomez' comments about the La Mirada run in the playoffs and the title game. "I think we defended pretty well, holding (San Juan Hills) under their usual 70 points," Cervantes said. "I think we came out excited to play and we came out excited to play and we were ready for the moment, but late in the game we started going downhill."

> Cervantes turned his attention to the state playoffs and the upcoming game against King/Drew. "Making it deep in the playoffs, I think we have potential. Right now, we're at our best like we did all season."

> The first game of the CIF State playoffs was at King/Drew and the team rose up to the moment and had a big fourth quarter to pull the game out.

> "What a ride so far," said La Mirada Athletic Director Christine Mead, after the round one victory over King/Drew. "Our boys are working so hard. I love the fact that they never give up. We were down by 10 going into the fourth quarter against King/Drew, but they boys never stopped working and it paid off with a 65-60 victory.

> "Their fight determination are amazing to watch. It is a team effort and the boys work so well together on the court. Randy's coaching has a lot to do with their success as well. He has the boys focused and keeps them calm when things get chaotic on the court. His passion for the game is seen in his coaching and how the boys conduct themselves on the court. They are so fun to watch. I am excited to see what this team has

The game started out as even as could be with the Matadores hold a slim 16-15 first-quarter lead. By halftime, the Eagles had a 19-point second quarter and La Mirada only could manage nine

King/Drew led, 34-25 at the up with 20 points, while Gomez

Cole, Cervantes and Kalaj all had six points at the break.

With the Matadores down by 10, 54-44, heading into the fourth quarter, Gomez took over, scoring 12 points, including a 3-pointer in the final quarter. Kalaj did the damage in the third quarter with 10 points. He ended and Cervantes scored 15 and 13 points, respectively.

One person that keeps Oronoz grounded with her support and game-time rituals is his fiancé, Desiree. "She has her own Desiree. "She has her routine," Oronoz concluded.
