

95th Annual Awards & Installation Luncheon

Norwalk Chamber of Commerce celebrated 95 years of serving the local business community at the Annual Awards & Installation Luncheon on June 13th. This event celebrates local business and community stakeholders who contribute to local economic growth and sustainability through volunteerism and involvement. The areas of recognition are Volunteer of the Year, Ambassador of the Year, Business of the Year and our President's Award. This year the Chamber recognized outstanding businesses in three different categories, based on business employee size, economic achievements, community and Chamber support.

The 2018 Volunteer of the Year was Susan Arthur, who serves on the Ambassador Committee and helps with every Chamber activity. She has spent countless hours securing sponsorships for events, helped set up and take down for every event, attended workshops, lunches and breakfasts meeting and more. Sue is a great example of what Volunteerism really is. Our 2018 Ambassador of the year is Amanda Blanton of Farmers & Merchants Bank. Amanda joined the Ambassador Team right after becoming a Chamber member and is a leader in this group. In addition to her Ambassador responsibilities she is also on the Event Committee and active in Women in Business. For the Business of the Year category, President Yovani Flores felt that there were many outstanding businesses this last year so she followed the Small Business Administration (SBA) categories and recognized Business of the Year in small, mid sized and large business categories. Our Small Business of the Year is Norwalk La Mirada Plumbing, Heating & Air Conditioning. This business is celebrating over 60 years here in Norwalk and 54 years as a Norwalk Chamber member. Owner Don Skala supports not only the Norwalk Chamber but many other nonprofit organizations locally with water donations and more. The mid sized Business of the Year is Coast Plaza Hospital. They have been recognized because of their innovation in bringing new services to the Norwalk Community, their ongoing sponsorship of the Norwalk Chamber and their additional community partnerships. Opening their new wound care center and achieving certification as a primary stroke center by the American Heart Association to better serve the Norwalk Community were a few of the reasons that they received this award. In the large business category, this year's Business of the Year is Norwalk Walmart, and store manager Shylah Ratcliff. Walmart not only provides ongoing support to the Norwalk Chamber of Commerce, they also support the City of Norwalk, Norwalk clubs and organizations, local schools and more. They are a President's Circle sponsor for the Chamber, are a sponsor for many Chamber events, they provide jobs for local residents, and bring much needed sales tax revenue to the City of Norwalk. All of these businesses are community partners for many local clubs, organizations, schools, and the entire city. Our Presidents award is given out annually by the President to a Chamber or Community member who has been invaluable to the President during their term of office. Each president has their own opportunity to recognize that one person who stood out and provided support to the President throughout their year. This year's President's Award was presented to Board Member Gordon Stefenhagen of Norwalk Realty by President Yovani who thanked him for all of the times he said "yes" when asked to step up and take on an activity or challenge for the Chamber. Lastly our outgoing Board Member Francella Aguilar of Republic Services was presented with plaques and certificates for her service to the Norwalk Chamber of Commerce and the community over the last five years.

Each of the honorees was presented with certificates of appreciation and plaques from the Norwalk Chamber of Commerce, the City of Norwalk, Congresswoman Linda Sánchez, Assembly Majority Leader Ian Calderon and Assembly Member Cristina Garcia.

After the Awards ceremony, the Board of Directors and new President were sworn into office by Norwalk Mayor Jennifer Perez. The ongoing theme of the event was "Building for the Future" and we look forward to this upcoming year with new President Trisha Gutierrez of QM Fundraising and her Board as they build the future of the Norwalk Chamber of Commerce. Thank you to Toni Grijalva of Cerritos College for serving as our MC for the Installation Luncheon, and special thanks to the Installation Committee, Yovani Flores, Trisha Gutierrez and Theresa Bazen for putting on a great event. Additional thanks go out to Bruce's Prime Ribs and owner Jeannie Mayer for a great lunch!

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Hello from your newly installed President for the 2018 – 2019 year. I am looking forward to building a great future with our members for this upcoming year. Together we can provide valuable learning opportunities through our Leadership Series and other workshops. We can continue to create more connections for our members with exposure to the community and businesses through our lunches and events. We can advocate for you through our legislative alliances and opportunities to hear from our elected representatives on the national and state level.

This year Norwalk Chamber is the host of the 2018 Ambassador Rally which will bring together leaders from our Chamber and Chambers throughout Southern California for a day of networking and workshops. If you are interested in finding out how to increase your visibility in the community, this would be a great event to attend. Additional information will be coming, but save the date of October 12th for the Rally.

Norwalk is the "Keystone" City, as we are located centrally with freeway access from both Los Angeles and Orange Counties. This creates opportunities for connecting with many potential clients. We are also the home to offices for Los Angeles County Supervisor, Janice Hahn, Congresswoman Linda Sánchez, County libraries and the County courthouse.

To better support our businesses and community we are developing a scholarship program for both Chamber businesses and local students which you will hear more about as we move forward. We hope to see you at our upcoming Business Expo which is scheduled for Wednesday, August 8th at the Norwalk City Hall Lawn in conjunction with National Night Out. Can't make that event there will be others! Look for our 4th Annual Oktoberfest on October 18th at So-Cal Pizza or the Holiday Mixer.

I am hoping to meet you all during this year and share with you our vision of Building our Future!

Sincerely,
Trisha Gutierrez
2018-19 President

Labor Law Corner

Workers' Comp Doctor Not Final Say on Employee's Condition

One of my employees has been out on a leave of absence due to a work-related injury for almost a year now. My workers' compensation insurance company's claims handler recently told me that the employee had a "QME" and that the doctor is reporting that the employee's condition is "permanent and stationary" and that his physical limitations are so great that he can never return to his previous job. Is it OK if I terminate this employee since he can no longer do his job?

It would be extremely risky for you to terminate the employee at this juncture. Even though your insurance company's doctor deems the employee's condition as "permanent and stationary" for purposes of workers' compensation, you can terminate the employee only if there is no way to reasonably accommodate the limitations that the employee may have.

Qualified Medical Evaluation

You need to understand that in the workers' compensation system, a "QME" (qualified medical evaluation) is a medical examination performed by a doctor chosen by your insurance company.

Just because your insurance company's doctor says the employee's condition is "permanent and stationary" doesn't necessarily mean that the condition is "permanent and stationary" in the eyes of the law.

The employee's condition (in the workers' compensation system) is not truly permanent and stationary until either both parties agree to the status, or the judge from the Workers' Compensation Appeals Board issues a ruling stating that the condition is permanent and stationary.

Retaliation Claim

If you were to terminate the employee based solely upon the opinion of your insurance company's doctor, you could be leaving yourself open to a claim of retaliation and/or discrimination under Labor Code Section 132(a).

If a workers' compensation judge were to rule that the employee's condition was not permanent and stationary at the time of the termination and that his condition improved to a point that he could have performed his previous job, with or without an accommodation, you could be held liable for a fine of up to $10,000, plus back wages for the employee.

In a situation like this, it is always best to consult with your legal counsel before terminating an employee on a protected leave of absence.
